HE IS DEAD.

Close of the Life and Rule of the Czar of Russia.

Death Entered the Palace of Livadia at 3 P. M. To-Day.

A Sleepless Night and Day of Agony Before the End Came.

RECEPTION OF THE ANNOUNCEMENT IN THE CAPITALS OF EUROPE.

Dispatches of an Official Nature Confirm the Bulletin First Sent From the Royal Residence in the Crimea—Conspiracy to Kill the Czarowitz Discovered at St. Petersburg—Close of a Somber Reign—The Romanoff Family.

LIVADIA, Nov. 1.—The Czar of Russia died at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A bulletin issued by the Czar's physicians this morning prepared the people to expect the monarch's death before the day closed. It said:

"The Czar passed the night without sleep. The activity of his heart is diminishing rapidly. His majesty's condition is very dangerous. His respiration is very difficult."

This bulletin was by far the gravest yet issued and the general belief was that the death agony had begun and that the Czar could not last through the day.

It was understood that he had not slept at all during the night and that the difficulty he experienced in breathing made every moment a supreme struggle.

All the members of the Czar's family, except the second son, George, were present when the end came.

People in multitudes crowd about the places where the bulletins announcing the Czar's death are posted.

Immediately after the body of the Czar has been prepared it will be laid upon an inclined table preliminary to being placed in a temporary coffin. The priests will then enter the bedroom and will chant a requiem. This will be repeated three times daily until the burial takes place. It is understood that the Czarowitz will immediately issue a proclamation declaring himself Czar.

ANNOUNCED IN ST. PETERSBURG.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—The death of the Czar was announced here at 6 o'clock this evening.

NEWS RECEIVED IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Daily News has a special dispatch from Livadia saying that the Czar is dead.

This morning the Russian Embassy announced that it was in receipt of a dispatch saying that the Czar was very much worse, and that his end was approaching.

According to a private dispatch received by the Queen of Denmark, mother of the Czarina, the Czar died at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

When to-day's bulletin from Livadia was received it was known that the Czar's death was only a question of hours, but the bulletins announcing his death as having occurred this morning, which were posted in London and cabled to the United States, are shown to have been premature. The Berlin Foreign Office and the Russian Embassy here did not receive the news of the Czar's death until 6 o'clock this evening.

ONE OF THE LAST MESSAGES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—Gen. Kostanda, commander of the troops of the Moscow District, in reply to a telegram of congratulations sent to the Czar upon the anniversary of the latter's escape from death through the railroad disaster near Borkio, received the following message from his majesty:

"I heartily thank you for the sentiment and good wishes expressed on the anniversary of an event so memorable for us as our miraculous escape from a threatening danger. ALEXANDER."

EFFECT ON STOCKS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1, 11 p.m.—The announcement of the death of the Czar fell flat upon the Stock Exchange and the market, which was strong at the time, continued its upward course. The international stocks were particularly firm, and the event caused not the slightest flurry on the Exchange.

ABANDONED THE HUNT.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—In view of the news received from Livadia this morning, Emperor William has abandoned the annual hunt which takes place on the day of the Feast of St. Hubert, which falls this year upon Saturday.

NO NEWS AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Up to 1:15 o'clock p. m. the announcement of the death of the Czar had not been received at the State Department or Russian Embassy.

REPORTED IN PARIS.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—A dispatch received here from St. Petersburg confirms the report that the Czar is dead.

AGAINST THE CZAROWITZ.

A Conspiracy to Kill the New Ruler Discovered at St. Petersburg.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—According to a dispatch received here from St. Petersburg, a conspiracy against the life of the Czarowitz has been discovered there. For several days past the police have been actively engaged in arresting Nihilists. Among those arrested are several students. The police have also obtained possession of incriminating documents.

CLOSE OF A SOMBER REIGN.

Alexander III. Was Constantly Beset by Dangers—Suspicions of Everyone.

It was just three days after his 36th birthday that Alexander III., who has just died, became Czar.

He was born March 10, 1845, and the fatal Sunday on which his father was stricken down by Nihilists, fell on the 13th of March, 1881. The then Czarevitch had left his father's side only a few moments before. Both had been attending the weekly military review at the Michael Manege in St. Petersburg. The doomed Czar never had seemed in better health and spirits. It was a clear, bright Russian winter day, the thick snow sparkling upon the ground, and the streets were filled with people and the merry tinkle of sleigh-bells.

It is the destiny of Russia's rulers that some violent, hideous form of death is every moment hanging over their heads. Yet never had the awful moment seemed further away than when Alexander II. set out for the Winter Palace in his carriage, driving through cheering crowds that lined the sidewalks. The Czarevitch had gone ahead and reached his own abode before the Czar started homeward.

The assassins' plans were too well laid to permit of failure. The first movement was just as the Czar's carriage was turning toward the palace of the Grand Duchess Catharine Michaelovna. A woman clad in black stood on the Canan Bridge, and, as the carriage appeared, slowly raised the white handkerchief she held in her right hand three times to her face. This was not particularly noticed at the moment, but was recalled after the assassination by those who observed the action.

At this signal several men dressed as peasants approached the street running along the canal. The imperial carriage, with a strong guard around it, was sweeping rapidly towards the point to which the assassins were directing their steps. The crowd there was dense, hats were lifted and the air was filled with cheers, when suddenly there was a loud crash and the flames and smoke of an explosion.

A bomb had struck immediately behind the carriage. Flying stones and pieces of the shattered vehicle were hurled into the air. The horses stopped. Close around them and the carriage several of the guard and spectators were stretched upon the pavement covered with blood. One, a little baker boy, who had stood with a basket of loaves on his arm, kept crying aloud:

"I cannot help it! I really cannot help it!"

The Emperor's coachman, a man who had grown gray in his service, was the first to recover presence of mind. He saw at a glance that his imperial master was uninjured, and that the damaged carriage could be driven. He frantically urged his horses onward, but was stopped by the Czar himself.

Pale as death and with his hands spattered with blood, the Russian ruler stepped out of the carriage. He had only been scratched a little by the flying splinters of the glass and woodwork of the carriage. Officers of the guard pressed around him asking eagerly if he was hurt.

"No," he said, slowly shaking his head and crossing himself, "but these are." He pointed to the dead and dying close around him.

At that moment a police official approached and reported that the assassin had been caught.

"Are you the criminal who tried to take my life?" asked the Czar of a pale-faced youth dressed as a peasant, who was brought before him.

"Yes," was the sullen answer.

"What is your name?"

The murderer gave a false one. His real name was Ryssakoff.

Then another officer of the guard again asked the Czar if he was injured.

"No, thank God; I am not," was the Emperor's reply.

At this Ryssakoff, who apparently was quite calm, sneeringly said:

"Don't thank God yet. It may be too soon."

The Emperor made no comment, but moved slowly along the canal towards his carriage. At that moment a man pressed forward and threw something at the Czar's feet. The spectators at first thought it was a snowball, but the instant it struck the ground there was another blinding flash, another loud explosion, another cloud of smoke.

As soon as the smoke cleared away the Czar was seen lying side by side with his murderer in the snow on the pavement. The Sovereign's face was covered with blood; his legs were a shapeless mass. His elder brother, the Grand Duke Michael, rushed to his side and bent over him.

"Sasha! Sasha!" he cried, do you know me?"

"It is cold, cold," rambled the stricken man. "Take me to the Winter Palace. Let me die there."

These were his last words. He lived but a few unconscious hours after arriving there.

With the blackness of this horror over him the reign of Alexander III. began, and in gloom it continued to the end. He escaped violent death, the end of all the Romanoffs who preceded him, from Peter the Great down save one—Catharine II.—but in the terror of a violent death, and with mysterious assassins constantly threatening and striking at him, his life has been as dismal as that of any of his predecessors.

II.

TRAGIC ROMANOFF RECORD.

It is a gloomy record, that of the Romanoffs. No wonder there is said to be a taint of hereditary madness in their blood. Alexis, the son of Peter the Great, was killed by his own father. Peter II. was the victim of a police conspiracy, as was the Empress Anna. Elizabeth was poisoned. Peter III. was strangled. Catharine broke the bloody record by dying a natural death at an advanced age. Paul I. was strangled and Alexander I., his successor, was poisoned. Nicholas I. committed suicide, and that brings the list down to Alexander II., whose terrible taking off is above related.

Prior to his accession to the throne but little was known by the general public outside of Russia concerning the Czar who has now passed away. In Russia he bore the reputation of being amiable, light of heart and fond of wholesome, innocent recreation. No laugh was heartier than his in the St. Petersburg theaters, where his face was frequently seen. For many years, until his elder brother died on the Riviera, he had little expectation of ever reaching the throne, and probably had little desire to reach it.

But he stepped into his brother's shoes in more ways than the succession to the throne. He married his dead brother's betrothed wife, the Princess Dagmar Frederika of Denmark, sister of the Princess of Wales. When the elder brother was dying he made a special request that this marriage take place. It suited neither Czarevitch nor Princess at the start. The Princess mourned her old lover and the Czarevitch had formed an attachment for a lady of the court.

But the union thus instantly made for reasons of state ended happily. The Czar was notoriously in love with his wife. He always had the name of being a model husband.

The Czarina, while lacking somewhat in the queenly beauty of the Princess of Wales, her sister, has a charm of character which has won the hearts of the Russian people and has even in a measure disarmed the unspeakable creatures of blood who have dogged the Emperor's steps with threats of assassination ever since he came to the throne. She was called the Czar's guardian angel, but her life has been little better than a pilgrimage through a chamber of horrors.

The plots of the assassins, flushed with the success of their efforts to butcher, were at once directed against Alexander II.'s successor. Alexander III. became the object of plot after plot of the Nihilists. The extraordinary measures taken for his protection were constantly added to with the discovery of each new plot.

The mysterious organization of murderers appeared to have strange powers to approach him unseen. He found communications from the so-called "Executive Committee" in the most unexpected places—pinned to his pillow, within the folds of his napkin, under his breakfast plate.

He lived in an atmosphere of perpetual danger. Sleeping or waking, with guards posted about him to prevent all approach to the imperial apartments, he yet found the dreaded communications threatening death, until at last he could trust no one near him save his wife and his faithful Siberian hound.

Whenever the Czar visited St. Petersburg the city swarmed with detectives. In March, 1889, two law students were arrested upon suspicion while mingling with a crowd in a street through which the imperial carriage was to pass. One had a bag filled with dynamite bombs, and the other carried a book which on investigation proved to be an infernal machine deadly enough to kill a hundred people.

The Czar's rural retreat at Gatschina was nothing more or less than a strongly garrisoned fortress. Picked soldiers guarded it day and night.

The Czar's naturally strong nerves to a certain extent gave way under the terrific strain. He came to suspect everybody. It came to the pass that the highly charged atmosphere about him became dangerous, and even, in several instances, fatal to those who had to approach him.

Baron Reuaern, one of his aides-de-camp, lost his life from this cause. The unfortunate Baron, thinking he would have time to take a few whiffs at his cigar on a certain occasion, was surprised by the sudden appearance of the Czar. Instinctively he made an attempt to conceal the cigar by putting it hastily behind his back. The Czar, thinking he was reaching for a pistol, shot him dead in his tracks.

A faithful servant of the imperial household, meeting the Czar in the park of the Gatschina palace, made a clumsy attempt to doff his cap. A concealed detective in the shrubbery mistook him for a threatening Nihilist and blew his brains out.

The late Czar had extraordinary physical strength. Once, when attacked with a dirk, he pinned his assailant to the ground and held him until the guard came. At another time he twisted a small coin into a corkscrew and threw it at the feet of an attendant, threatening to serve him as he had served the metal unless he walked in the straight and narrow path.

Personally, like so many of the Romanoffs, he was very handsome. Originally he had a kind and rather laughing face, but the dangers constantly besetting him implanted upon his features an expression so stern and determined it often was mistaken by those who first saw him for the mark of a nature inherently cruel and implacable.

His rule was stern enough, and showed anything but a tendency to truckle to his murderous enemies. He revoked many of the liberal plans inaugurated by his father, made the surveillance of the press more rigid and the laws governing the universities stricter.

The peasants had every reason to regret the mild reign of the murdered Czar when Alexander III. came to the throne and developed the stern determination his father's assassination had doubtless caused to take a firm hold upon him.

III.

THE CZAR'S DOMESTIC LIFE.

That he had a gentle and kindly side to his character was shown many times during his reign, but never more conspicuously than at the time of the royal gathering at Copenhagen on the occasion of the golden wedding celebration of the King and Queen of Denmark. Probably at no time during his somber reign was the Czar so nearly happy as he was during that brief holiday, with its respite from anxiety, suspicion and hourly peril of his life.

His fondness for children and harmless recreation and all the light-hearted good humor of his earlier years seemed to come back to him. He was the first of the household to be up and abroad in the morning, and when the Prince of Wales was taking his morning coffee the Czar had been away and got back from a long stroll. He fished and boated with the children, romped and went on wild sprees with them through the candy and toy shops of Copenhagen.

His consideration for others was brought out by a curious and rather touching incident. While walking in the palace park one day he was accosted by a ragged little girl who, not knowing who he was, asked alms. He drove her harshly away and then sent his adjutant after her with a present of money and a request that she forgive his rudeness, because he had done it for her good. He had been visiting some of his little nephews who had the measles, and he was afraid he would communicate the disease to the child unless he drove her instantly away, as he had done.

In his administration of the affairs of his nation his strong Russianism has been conspicuous. He has never lost an occasion or failed to take advantage of any method which would intensify and bring out the national characteristic.

He caused operas and theatrical performances to be sung and played in the Russian language and he encouraged in every way in his power the wearing of the distinctive Russian costume.

His address to the officers and men of the Black Sea fleet rang with patriotism and the most intense national feeling.

In personal habits the Czar was very simple. His daily habits, according to a well-informed writer, were those of a pope rather than a secular monarch, his relaxations those of a prisoner rather than of a potentate. When residing at Gatschina he generally rose at 7 a. m., whereas few noblemen in the capital leave their beds much before midday.

He then took a quiet stroll in the uninteresting, well-watched palace park, returned to early breakfast and engaged in severe manual labor as a preparation for the official work of the day. The latter consisted mainly of the reading and signing of enormous piles of edicts, ukases, laws and reports, all of which he conscientiously endeavored to understand. Upon the margins of these documents he wrote his decisions or his impressions with a frankness and abandon which laughed prudence and propriety to scorn.

Those who maintain that he was kept in complete or even partial ignorance of the cruel measures adopted in his name, or else that his boasted love of his people was but the varnish of hypocrisy, are as much astray in the matter of fact as is their appreciations. Cold-blooded cruelty or savage hatred was not the correct name of the motives that inspired the slaughter of the Amalekites by Saul or the autos da fe of Arbues d'Epila; nor should we forget that there is a moral ailment called a false conscience, the effect of which is to poison the action without vitiating its source.

"Men never do wrong so thoroughly and so cheerfully," says Paschal, "as when they are obeying the promptings of a false principle of conscience." To fancy, therefore, as many optimists do, that the Emperor needed only to repeal the cruel laws and remodel the system of government which ensnaring his people, is as hopeful as to delude one's self with the pleasing notion that an illiterate peasant needs but a pair of spectacles in order to enable him to read his Bible.

Lunch was always served at 1 o'clock and consisted of three courses, including soup, in the preparation of which Russian cookery is far ahead of that of the rest of Europe. After lunch the Emperor took his recreation in the park, walking or working, conversing with the members of his family or with Gen. Richter, Gen. Taberevin or one of his adjutants.

He generally read the newspapers at this time of the day, viz.: the Grashdanin and the Moscow Gazette (the Novoe Vremya, which was presented to him each day on special paper, he rarely honored with a glance) and listened to the reading of the abstract of the previous day's news, which consisted of extracts from the Russian and foreign papers selected by officials and copied out in a calligraphic hand on the finest paper in the empire.

Besides these abstracts—one for foreign, the other for home news—he took a keen delight in hearing the gossip and scandal of the fashionable world of the capital, and no one of his courtiers possessed the profitable talent of seasoning it with such spicy anecdotes and uncharitable but piquant innuendoes as Gen. Taberevin, who was known as the Czar's jester.

Recreation over, the Emperor gave audience to those ministers whose reports were due on that day, discussed the matter laid before him, and read over the edicts drawn up for his signature, signing them or setting them aside.

At 8 p. m. dinner, consisting of four courses, was served en famille. After dinner the Czar took tea in the private apartments of the Empress, where he invariably appeared in a check blouse and leather belt, which would impart a rude shock to the sections of court etiquette prevalent in most European countries.

His quiet tastes influenced his action in matters of infinitely greater importance than court entertainments; thus he displayed a languid interest in military manœuvers and reviews, and he abolished the famous institution of the May reviews where Guardsmen and Cossacks bravely vied with each other and witched the world with noble horsemanship, and it is scarcely to be wondered at that the officers of the Guards were extremely discontented with a commander-in-chief who no longer took a delight in the circumstance of glorious war.

IV.

THE LITTLE FATHER WAS TIMID.

The Czar was frequently accused of cowardice—an indictment to which, it must be admitted, many undeniable facts lend a strong coloring of probability. Thus it has been alleged in support of the charge that he seldom drove about the city alone, and when not escorted by a body of Cossacks was invariably accompanied by the Empress. His profound seclusion at Gatschina, where for a considerable period he hid himself even from the bulk of his own officers, likewise created a most unfavorable impression.

Again, the sight of the armies that guarded the railway lines along which he happened to be traveling; the elaborate system of espionage and the immoral practice of employing agents provocateurs who organized the crime which they discovered, contributed to impart consistency to a charge which his creditable career as officer should have amply sufficed to refute.

An isvostchik, driving a stranger through St. Petersburg one day, was stopped at the entrances to four different streets and ordered to return by the mounted police because his majesty was expected to pass that way.

"Is this aboroughfare closed, too?" was asked of the driver as the policeman made signs for the fourth time to retreat.

"Yes, your honor, it is," replied the driver. "The Little Father is a little timid."

Marvelous personal courage was not the most striking characteristic of the dynasty of the Romanoffs, as it was of the English Tudors. But between this and positive cowardice the gradations are endless. The Emperor Nicholas, absolutely ignorant of fear, could face a band of insurgents with the calm self-possession of a shepherd surveying his bleating sheep, and Alexander III. may well be a contrast to his grandfather without deserving the epithet craven-hearted.

V.

THE EMPRESS AND THE CORONATION.

The Czarina—Marie Feodorovna—was the brightest, prettiest and most charming of clever old Queen Louise of Denmark's daughters. Had she any inkling of the sad fate in store for her when, on the morning of her departure from her father's palace at Fredensborg, to become the bride of Alexander Alexandrovitch, at St. Petersburg, she drew a diamond ring from her finger and scratched on the window pane of her little bedroom, "Mit elskede Fredensborg, farvell!" (My beloved Fredensborg, farewell)? There were many at the time who made gloomy predictions concerning the marriage, for the Princess Dagmar had been betrothed to Alexander's eldest brother, who had died at Nice, and only consented to marry her present husband in accordance with the dying wishes of her fiance. It must be admitted, however, that she benefited by the change, for the present Czar was a man of noble and sterling character. No breath of scandal or intrigue ever clouded their marital relations. A more affectionate and devoted couple than the Emperor and Empress of Russia it would have been impossible to find. A more devoted wife no Emperor ever had.

The Empress was a lovely woman, 34 years of age, at the time of the coronation, on May 27, 1883. That ceremony was one of unequaled splendor and took place in the Cathedral of the Assumption in Moscow, the most sacred ecclesiastical edifice in the Empire. Amid the joyous clangor of hundreds of bells in all the churches of the ancient capital, the magnificent procession escorting the Czar and Czarina passed from the historical palace of the Kremlin to the church, cheered by scores and scores of thousands of loyal subjects.

The Czarina seemed extremely happy, bowing continually in acknowledgment of the overwhelming bursts of enthusiasm that greeted her. Beside her sat her daughter, the Grand Duchess Xenia, a young girl of 10, dressed in white and looking at the sight with all the wonder and delight of a child. The scene was a beautiful picture from fairyland. Eight white horses, veiled in cascades of gold fringe, drew the splendid carriage in which the lovely Empress was seated in her imperial robes.

The Emperor and Empress entered the church beneath a canopy borne by thirty-two officers of high rank, and were met at the portal by the chief dignitaries of the Greek Church. The Metropolitans of Novgorod and Kief sprinkled the imperial pair with holy water and presented to them the holy cup to be kissed. They were then conducted to the ancient throne, before which were placed the insigna of imperial power. In the presence of many foreign princes, all the representatives of friendly powers, the great church and state officers and princes of the empire, the Czar, having repeated the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' Creed and received the blessing of the Metropolitans, was invested with the imperial mantle and handed the crown, which he placed on his head, and assuming the scepter and the orb, took his seat on the throne of the Czar Vladimir Monomuque. Then he placed upon the head of the Empress his crown as she knelt before him. She was invested with the imperial mantle, and as the Czar and Czarina seated themselves the Archdeacon chanted "God Save the Czar," which was thrice repeated by the choir, and then all the bells of Moscow announced that the imperial coronation was accomplished.

VI.

THE IMPERIAL FAMILY.

The Czarina, who was born in 1847, and is therefore two years younger than the Czar, shows traces in her face of the anxiety and almost constant terror in which she has lived since her husband mounted to the throne. Her affection for her husband and children always was very strong, and nothing but the uncommon courage which it is universally admitted she possesses has enabled her to bear the strain of anxiety for their safety as well as she has. The Czarina has been from the first day of their marriage the most devoted of wives and mothers. A touching story is told of the time when, in 1889, the eldest child of the present imperial family died, aged 3 months. The Empress was inconsolable, and insisted upon carrying the tiny coffin, according to an old Russian custom, on her knees in the carriage from the palace to the fortress of SS. Peter and Paul, where the Romanoffs are interred. "That which every woman of the people may do ought not to be denied to me," she said. The winter was terribly cold, and the Empress, in carrying out her resolution, injured her health seriously, and was invalided for many weeks after.

There are four children—Nicholas Alexandrovitch, who now becomes the Czar, born May 18, 1868; Grand Duke George, born May 9, 1871; Grand Duchess Xenia, wife of Grand Duke Alexander, born April 6, 1875; Grand Duke Michael, born Dec. 4, 1878, and Grand Duchess Olga, born June 13, 1882.

The new Czar, now in his 27th year, lived much in seclusion until his recent trip around the world, when a meaningless attempt to kill him was made by a semi-lunatic in Japan. He is not strong physically and has not manifested striking mental gifts. He is fond of riding the bicycle and of going to London.

TWO KILLED.

Three Men Fall From a Building on Twelfth and Locust Streets.

About 1:40 p. m. two men were instantly killed and one dangerously wounded by falling from the roof of the new building being erected for the Desnoyers Shoe Co., at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Locust streets, on the site of the building formerly occupied by the Tyler Desk Co, and burned down. T. Bruner, the roofer, had eleven men employed on the roof when the accident occurred. Samuel Moore, resining at 4119 Obear avenue and Jake Warner, residing in the rear of Nineteenth street and Franklin avenue fell from the roof to the fifth floor on the inside of the building and then fell through a window to the outside of the building and down to the alley below, both being killed almost instantly. Joseph Enz, residing in the neighborhood of Jefferson and Chouteau avenues, fell two stories and was badly mangled. He was removed to the City Dispensary, where Dr. Moore pronounced his injuries very dangerous.

Mr. Bruner, the employer of the men, claims the accident was caused by the spreading of some beams which were not properly secured against the walls. The building is a seven story structure.

THE WEATHER.

Rain To-Night and To-Morrow—Little Change in Temperature.

BLUE

Forecast for St. Louis and vicinity—Increasing cloudiness Thursday; rain Thursday night and Friday; little change in temperature.

Forecast for Illinois—Rain and warmer to-night; Friday rain, colder.

Forecast for Missouri—Rain and warmer to-night; Friday rain followed by clearing and colder by evening; fresh southeast winds, shifting to northwest Friday.

The barometer is highest this morning in the South Atlantic States and on the Middle Plateau. It is lowest in the Southern Slope where a "low" of considerable energy is central.

There have been light rains in the Northwest and extreme West, and also from the Lake Region and Ohio Valley eastward.

The temperatures have risen decidedly in the Southwest, and have varied but little elsewhere.

ON THE ROCKS

Wreck of the Union Line Steamer Wairapa Off New Zealand.

The Captain, Twenty Seamen and Fifty-eight of the Passengers Lost.

EIGHTY-ONE PASSENGERS AND FORTY OF THE CREW SAVED.

At Midnight the Doomed Vessel Went On the Shoals—Many Boats Capsized During the Rescue—Rafts Constructed and Lines Run Ashore—Pathetic Leave-Takings Between Husbands and Wives and Parents and Children—Two Gallant Seamen.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Nov. 1.—Additional details regarding the loss of the Union Line steamer Wairapa Sunday night off the coast of New Zealand have been received from passengers arriving here. Eighty-one passengers and forty of the crew were saved. The Captain, twenty of the crew and fifty-eight passengers were drowned.

The steamship struck on the rocks at midnight during heavy weather and when a rough sea was running. The passengers were aroused by the shock and rushed in terror upon the deck, where life belts were served out and preparations made to lower the boats. The women passengers and children were first placed in the boats, but several of the boats were capsized while being lowered. The crew then set to work constructing rafts and ran a line ashore with great difficulty. With the aid of a breeches buoy they succeeded in rescuing a number of people who would otherwise have been drowned.

When the passengers saw the danger in which they were placed many pathetic and heart-rending scenes were witnessed, especially between husbands and wives and parents and their children, but there was no panic.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the boats were launched, as heavy seas were continually breaking over the vessel which was soon partly submerged, thus rendering the work of rescue more difficult than ever. The life rafts were cut adrift, and by means of them many were saved. Others clung to improvised rafts until rescued from the shore.

When the passengers reached on deck, many of them sought refuge on the bridge of the steamship, until heavy seas swept a number of them overboard and caused those who were unable to find places in the boats or on the rafts to escape to the rigging, where they remained until daybreak.

There is no doubt that many more passengers would have been drowned had it not been for the gallantry of two seamen, who swam ashore with a line, by means of which a stout rope, which was used later on in the work of rescue, was hauled ashore. Nearly all the survivors reached the shore in the scantiest clothing. Some of them remained on the rocks for thirty hours, subsisting on oranges, which washed ashore from the wreck.

When the disaster became known to the Maoris on land, these natives launched their small boats and succeeded in rescuing a number of people. Assistance was finally obtained from Port Fitzroy, and the survivors of the Wairapa were brought here.

CONFIRMED AT SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Nov. 1.—Lloyd's agent here confirms the statement previously cabled, that eighty-one passengers and twenty-three of the crew of the Union Line steamer Wairapa were drowned in the wreck of that vessel on the coast of New Zealand, Sunday night.

Killed by a Switch Engine.

FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 1.—T. E. Boaz, a leading citizen, was instantly killed by a switch engine last night at 11 o'clock. Deceased was formerly superintendent of the North side Street Railway, but at the time of death he was connected with the American National Bank. He leaves a wife and five children.

IS THAT THE LIMIT?

Goff's Sarcastic Question to Boyle Before the Lexow Committee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Commissioner John C. Sheehan, his brother, the Lieutenant-Governor, and Lawyer Louis Grant were early in their attendance on to-day's session of the Lexow Committee. Senator O'Connor presided in the absence of Chairman Lexow, who had not yet returned from campaign speech-making. Mr. Goff first offered Commissioner Sheehan's private appointment book in evidence.

Those who came with the expectation of seeing a repetition of yesterday's scene with Commissioner Sheehan on the stand were disappointed, for Mr. Goff at the outset announced that he would excuse the Commissioner for a few days. Mr. Goff gave as his reason that he had not yet gotten his evidence in good shape. Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan asked if his brother would be called again this week and received the reply that he would not. The brothers then withdrew.

Tammany Leader John W. Boyle, who was placed on the stand yesterday, was the first witness called. Mr. Goff wished to bring out that on his recommendation many men had been appointed on the police force. Mr. Goff asked him if he had found who issued the circulars to which his (Boyle's) name was attached asking for the names of people under police protection.

Witness stated that he had not been able to do so.

"How many men have you recommended for appointment on the police force?" asked Mr. Goff.

"Two, I believe."

"Only two?"

"Well, the limit is five."

Mr. Goff then read off a list of nineteen men whom the witness had recommended. After reading each name Mr. Goff would remark: "Is that the limit?"

Mr. Goff said that John C. Sheehan had recommended twenty-one men himself.

FOR TREASON.

Arrest of Capt. Dreyfus of the French Army.

He Is Charged With Espionage on Behalf of the Triple Alliance.

SUPPLIED THE ITALIANS WITH PLANS OF FORTIFICATIONS.

He Has Also Sold Specifications and Other Army Information to Austria and Germany—Names of Foreign Mission Officers Divulged—He Had Access to Many Important War Documents—The Sensation of the Hour—Foreign News.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The arrest of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus of the French general army staff on the charge of treason and espionage on behalf of the Triple Alliance is the sensation of the hour. The Captain was attached to the organizing and mobilizing department of the general army staff and in this capacity had access to some of the more important documents relating to the plans for mobilizing the French Army. Suspicion against Capt. Dreyfus was aroused by his intimacy with an Italian officer and Gen. Mercier, the Minister of War, caused detectives to be sent to Monaco and to Italy, with the result that Capt. Dreyfus is now under strict guard in the military prison.

Capt. Dreyfus is said to have supplied the Italian officer alluded to (who is believed to have been an agent of the Italian Government) with the plans for the mobilization of the 15th Army Corps, covering the Departments of the Maritime Alps, Ardech, Bouches-du-Rhone, Corsica, Gard, Var, Vaucluse and Marseilles, as well as with plans for mobilizing the French forces around Briancon—the Alpine Gibraltar.

He is also suspected of having furnished the Italian agent with plans of the numerous fortified positions around Briancon, which are connected by underground galleries with the town mentioned. Briancon is a place of the utmost importance and especially in view of the position of the Italian army in France. Briancon commands the route across the Aleut, between France and Italy, surrounding eminences, crowned with strong, modern fortifications, mounted with the latest artillery. These fortifications communicate with each other and with the town by subterranean passages. A bridge, having a span of about 150 feet and 180 feet high, crosses the Clarre Valley and affords access from the principal points of the fortifications to the town itself.

Capt. Dreyfus is said to have supplied the Italian Government with all the plans so carefully laid out during years past for the defense of the Alps and which have been looked upon as forming a complete bulwark against the possibility of an invasion of France frontally, and he is also said to have sold these plans to Germany and to have divulged to Austria and Germany the names of all the French officers who have recently been sent abroad on secret missions.

Capt. Dreyfus was married to the daughter of a rich diamond merchant of that city.

Differences Arranged.

TANGIERS, Nov. 1.—The differences between the Bhamma tribe and the Sultan of Morocco have been arranged and no further trouble is anticipated from these tribesmen.

The district of Cabe Blanc is in a state of anarchy. The tribes are fighting among themselves and several severe battles have already occurred. Many tribesmen have been killed on both sides. The prisoners and the wounded are treated with great severity.

CHARGE INFIDELITY

William L. Link's Wife Sues Him for a Divorce.

Mrs. Maria M. Link has begun a suit in the Circuit Court to obtain a divorce from Wm. F. Link, the well-known newspaper man and cashier in Collector Ziegenhein's office. She charges him with shooting at her, assaulting her, general indignities and infidelity with a Miss Garff. She asks an injunction restraining him from collecting certain moneys and also for a mandatory injunction compelling him to allow her to obtain her clothes.

THE COOK GANG.

Hunt for the Outlaws Prosecuted With Vigor.

WAGONER, I. T., Nov. 1.—The Cook gang are now near Wagoner. While out riding two miles west of town, Thos. Shade and W. H. Baldridge, two Cherokees, met two of them armed with Winchesters and revolvers. They rode on and it is thought they are hiding out in the Verdigris Bottoms, west of town. Deputies Casaver, Turnbo and Dryden were out in that part of the country looking for traces of them and saw where the wire fence had been cut and where parties had ridden through. They carry wire cutters and cut all fences that are in their way.

Attempts were made to organize a posse to go after them to-day, but the gang knows if they are captured they will be hanged or be sentenced to the penitentiary for life and they will make a desperate fight. Everybody knows this and that someone will be killed in the attempt to bring the outlaws in. Consequently it is a hard matter to organize a posse.

The band of Indian policemen that were here Monday are in the Cherokee Nation, but they will be notified and will start at once to the neighborhood where the Cooks were seen last.

There has never been a gang of outlaws in Indian Territory that have been so much dreaded as the Cook gang. They number about fifteen of the most desperate characters in the Cherokee Nation. It is reported that Perry Brewer, once a peaceable and highly respected citizen of this town, is with them now. He shot and killed a man without provocation at his home about two weeks ago, has been scouting, and it is said by parties who ought to know that he has joined this notorious gang of outlaws. Marshal Bump of Ft. Smith has offered a large reward for the Cook gang, dead or alive, and Brewer is included with them.

OWNS JOE PATCHEN.

The Sensational Pacer Cost Col. John G. Taylor $600.

HAS EARNED $30,000 FOR THE ST. LOUIS HORSEMAN THIS SEASON.

Story of How Col. Taylor Secured Joe Patchen and His Dam, Josie Young—Green Morris' Yearlings—The Better Class of Sportsmen Do Not Like Popular Prices at Boxing Entertainments.

Col. John G. Taylor, the well-known patron of harness horses and owner of the sensational pacer Joe Patchen, resides with his interesting family on West Pine boulevard. His duties as Special Commissioner of the Interstate Commerce Commission keep Mr. Taylor on the road for the greater portion of his time, and his stay in St. Louis seldom exceeds more than two days at a time.

Mr. Taylor was until recently the live stock agent of one of the best-known trunk lines entering St. Louis. In addition to campaigning a string of harness horses Mr. Taylor is the owner of an extensive breeding establishment near Burlington, Kan. He has also just leased the Leroy Payne farm, near Chebanse, Ill., where his horses in training will spend the winter. Joe Patchen is by Patchen Wilkes—Josie Young.

John Curry, one of the most noted drivers in America, has handled the ribbons behind Mr. Taylor's horses during the past season. Too much credit cannot be given him for the wonderful success of Joe Patchen. E. O. Crane has been placed in charge of the Payne farm by Mr. Taylor.

In his younger days the owner of Joe Patchen was an enthusiastic base ball player of no mean ability. Since attaining his majority he has been a thorough sportsman. As a railroad live stock agent he was necessarily thrown into contact with breeders and horse owners and soon began to dabble in horseflesh himself. When he went into the business Mr. Taylor determined not to race until he could do so with horses from his own stud, which he located near Burlington, Kan.

The foreman of his ranch mentioned to Mr. Taylor that while on a visit to Peaboby, Kan., he had seen a mare and yearling colt which he considered cheap at $1,000, the price asked for them. His employe was so enthusiastic over the pair that Mr. Taylor determined to take a look at them at his first opportunity. When called away from the ranch suddenly, he concluded to buy the mare and colt on his man's judgment. The mare Josie Young valued at $400 and the untried colt at $800 were bought by the foreman and taken to Mr. Taylor's ranch. The $800 colt is now the noted Joe Patchen, with a racing record of 2:06. His most meritorious performance was when he finished second to Robert J., when he made the record of 2:02¾.

No effort was made to develop his speed until last year, when he was trained and campaigned on the Kansas circuit for a brief time. Although handled by a man without much reputation or pretentions, Joe Patchen demonstrated that he was more than ordinary horse by occasional bursts of speed. Still Mr. Taylor was not convinced at first that he owned a really great pacer, but he concluded to give him a chance, and Joe Patchen has exceeded his wildest expectations by his campaign on the grand circuit this season. With the great Carry as his driver, Joe Patchen's career on the circuit was one grand series of triumphs until he met Cicero J. at Crack Robert J.

The magnificent contests between the pair at Washington Park, Terre Haute and Indianapolis are still fresh in the public's mind. Although the St. Louis owned horse came out second best every time they met, his owner had Father Time to console with on each occasion, as the pacing record was lowered by the winner. The climax to the exciting races between the pair came at Terre Haute in September, when in order to defeat his sturdy rival, Robert J. went a mile within two seconds and a half of two minute mark. On this occasion Joe Patchen was right along side of his conqueror's wheel, so that although Mr. Taylor's horse is not credited with the record he gave a fine line on his real speed. Mr. Taylor is confident his horse has not yet reached the limit of his speed and is sure that Joe Patchen will improve materially in the next year. If this proves to be the case, the know-it-alls who have been predicting that John R. Gentry will be the pacing king next season, may find their prophecies greatly out of line. John R. Gentry was formerly owned by the gentleman for whom he was named, a prominent resident of this state. It is said by Col. Jerry Hunt, one of Mr. Taylor's intimate friends that he has realized the sum of $50,000 out of Joe Patchen's performances this season.

His owner received handsome sums for his exhibition trials, besides his share of the purses for which the great side wheeler contested. An offer of $30,000 was refused for Joe Patchen, whose services in the stud would in the opinion of horsemen be worth that sum, even if he should meet with an accident by which his wonderful speed would be lost or impaired.

Of the fifteen horses in the string campaigned by Col. Taylor, the most famous, next to Joe Patchen, are Demoineer, May Be, Flossie Bezant and Telephone.

GREEN MORRIS' YEARLINGS.

The Missouri Turfman Has Nine Promising Youngsters—Turf Gossip.

Green B. Morris, the Missouri turfman, has nine promising yearlings in his string and among them there are two or three that seem more than likely to continue the fame won by such horses as Drake Carter, Favor, Sir Dixon and Judge Morrow, all of which were campaigned by Morris in his palmy days. Mr. Morris' yearlings will be wintered at their owner's private stable, just outside the Gravesend race track. Mr. Morris himself is at St. Asaph with some of his horses, but in Mrs. Morris he has an able lieutenant to manage his home interests. Mrs. Morris is the "Company" of the firm of Green B. Morris & Co. She is an enthusiastic admirer and a good judge of racehorses and a clever business woman. She looks after the entrance to stakes, forfeits and the racing accounts generally. The best of the yearlings, according to an Eastern turf writer, is a bay filly by Maxim, dam Ventura, and the bay colt by Sir Modred, dam Plaything, a full brother to Tournament. These are both grand individuals, and both have been tried highly. The Maxim filly is of the stocky, compact type. She has extraordinary development of the quarters and second thighs. She has a splendid set of legs and powerful, sloping shoulders. The colt by Sir Modred, out of Plaything, like his famous brother, is a big horse, tall, rangy, with great substance and great driving power. Mr. Morris thinks especially well of this youngster, and if he is only half as good a race horse as Tournament he will more than pay his way.

After winning the second race at Madison Wednesday, Montana Belle collided with Irene H. and both animals went down in a heap. Jockey Rebo, who rode Montana Belle to victory, was picked up for dead. His face was cut and bruised, the result of being kicked by one of the colliding horses. For some time after being conveyed to a room under the grand stand the unfortunate rider bled at the mouth, and it was feared he had sustained internal injuries. He rallied later on, however, and the doctors in attendance expressed hopes of his recovery. The force of the collision crushed Irene H.'s head, and the black mare had to be destroyed. Montana Belle and Jockey Arnold, who rode Irene H., escaped serious injury.

Results at Madison.

First race, eleven-sixteenths of a mile—Josephine Cassidy first, Eden second, M. A. B. third. Time, 1:18.

CORBETT ENRAGED.

The Champion and Wrestler McVay Fight in a Sleeper.

ATCHISON, Kan., Nov. 1.—Corbett's "Gentleman Jack" company passed through here yesterday from St. Joseph. While the train was standing at the Union Depot Corbett and John McVay, the trainer and wrestler, one of the members of the company, got into a scuffle. McVay tried to throw Corbett, but failed and the champion gave him a few jabs that made his antagonist bleed at the ears. The trouble was renewed soon after the train left St. Joseph. Corbett was asleep and McVay disturbed him. They immediately clinched and tussled for five minutes. Corbett struck his antagonist twice, but McVay was too dazed to strike back. He is a much bigger man than Corbett, who was very mad, although he tried to conceal his anger. Passengers on the train who saw the scrimmage say that Corbett's actions were brutal. McVay was pretty badly used up, as he was bleeding at both ears and his face was badly swollen and disfigured.

MICK DUNN HERE.

Creedon's Old Opponent Comes Out to Handle Tom Tracey.

Mick Dunn, the Australian middleweight, who boxed with Young Griffo before the Olympic Club during its recent pugilistic carnival, and was in Dan Creedon's corner when the latter met Fitzsimmons, has arrived here and will at once take charge of Tom Tracey.

Dunn is ready to arrange a go for himself and Manager Mike Walsh of the Madison Athletic Club says that he may be given a chance before that club. Dunn was defeated by Creedon in their native country, but they are now fast friends. Tracey's seconds will be Creedon and Dunn.

FITZ SPARRING PARTNER.

Con Riordan Will Box With Bob—Jim Hall on Fitz' Chances.

Bob Fitzsimmons has engaged Con Riordan, the "California Giant," as his sparring partner. Riordan acted in a similar capacity for Peter Jackson when the latter made a tour of the United States. He has also frequently sparred with Corbett and expects to give Fitz some valuable points on how to fight the champion. Jim Hall is of the opinion that the Kangaroo has an even money chance with Corbett and advises his friends to take the short end of all offers of 2 to 1 on the California. "I'll tell you why Fitz has a good chance," said Hall. "He is a two-handed fighter, while Corbett is only a one-handed man. I want to get that go on with O'Donnell. I can lick him. He used to be my partner in Australia and is this country, but he got mad because I told him one day that I could lick him, and we split up. Then I want a try at Choynski during Mardi Gras week at New Orleans, and I'm likely to get either him or O'Donnell."

* * *

According to the Eastern papers the last entertainment of the Seaside Athletic Club was a financial frost. The programme was satisfactory, but it is claimed that the best element of the sporting fraternity was kept away by the popular prices of admission which rule. General attendance was good, but the boxes and reserved seats were almost deserted. The general admission to a flatic show should not be so high that those interested in the sport would be put to inconvenience by patronizing it, but the figure should be such that the rag-tag-and-bobtail element will be effectually barred. Popular prices make the box and reserved seat patrons wary.

Manager Walsh of the Madison Athletic Club will give his especial attention to the preservation of order at its entertainments. A force of special officers will be at hand and no rowdyism will be allowed. The occupants of boxes and reserved seats will not be annoyed. No one under the influence of liquor will be allowed to enter the tent.

WITH TOMMY WHITE.

Danny Daly Will Have a Six-Round Go on Nov. 12.

Danny Daly will meet Tommy White of Chicago on Nov. 14 before the Triangle Club in that city in a six-round go. Daly is given a guarantee of $200, win or lose. Johnnie Daly, who arranged the go, will train his namesake and be in his corner. Charlie Daly, who is East with Johnnie Van Heest, will return to-morrow and assist in the preparation of Danny.

"Danny will make a good showing against White," said Johnnie Daly. "They fought a ninety-one round draw on Dec. 6, 1890, and I feel sure that our man will make it interesting for his old opponent for six rounds. Danny is not drinking a drop and will be in good condition. He appreciates the fact that if he puts up a good front against White, he will get other matches in the Windy City. I hope to get on a go with Con Doyle or some other 150 pound man. I have a tip that I will be accommodated.

A ROCKY RECORD.

McKee and Demyer Won the Rock-Drilling Championship.

LEADVILLE, Colo., Nov. 1.—The rock-drilling contest for the championship of the world and a purse of $225 was won by McKee and Demyer, the former champions of this city. They made a score of 35 5-8 inches in 15m., the rock being gunnison granite. Eleven teams contested.

Pastimes Vs. Illinois University.

B. W. Laurell, secretary of the Pastime Athletic Club and manager of the foot ball team of that organization, has been notified that the Illinois University eleven will arrive Saturday morning. They will be entertained at the Pastime club-house. The game will take place Saturday morning at the Pastime grounds at De Hodiamont. The "green" men of the Pastime eleven are improving in practice.

Sporting Notes.

Princeton and Pennsylvania will play on Nov. 10. Cornell and Harvard will also meet.

Yale defeated the Volunteers of New York by a score of 42 to 2. Lafayette was beaten by Pensylvania by a score of 20 to 0.

J. A. R. Elliott and John S. Brewer will shoot five matches for a stake. Brewer declined to shoot for the championship.

Three records were broken at Decatur, Ill. Cabanne rode half a mile, paced flying start, in 83s, one-fifth of a second less than the old mark. Brown wheeled one-third of a mile, pacedflying start in 28 3-5s., and Johnson and Higby made a quarter of a mile on a tandem in 24 1-5s. flat.

Southern Key Clerk.

John J. Walsh, who has been temporary night clerk at the Planters' during the illness of Mr. William H. Ormes, has accepted the position of key clerk at the Southern, vice R. G. Sanford, resigned, who will return to his home at New York. Mr. Walsh is an experienced hotel man, having been on the staff of the Palmer House before coming here.

HOFFMAN, ALIAS BRYANT.

How He Passed Forged Checks and Victimized a Liveryman.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 1.—Last Saturday night a stranger giving his name as J. W. Bryant, and representing himself as a Missouri Pacific Railway brakeman, passed a forged check for $15 on Gentry & Cloney, gents' furnishers of this city. The check was on the People's Bank, and purported to be signed by W. E. Cummings, a prominent farmer living near this city.

Bryant then drove overland to Dresden, caught a train and got to Knobnoster early Sunday morning. There he employed Liveryman J. H. Hays to drive him to Odessa, Mo., on the Chicago & Alton Railway. He said that he was a partner of W. H. Harrah, a Sedalia liveryman, and that they were buying live stock on commission for future delivery for St. Louis commission firm.

At Warrensburg he forged three checks on Sedalia banks for $21, $10 and $1, respectively. He paid for an overcoat at W. M. Wilson's, a clothier, with the first check.

Near Columbus, Mo., he gave a farmer named Rice a forged check for $60 drawn on a Sedalia bank in payment for a mare. The mare was to have been delivered in Holden yesterday afternoon.

Sunday evening they reached Odessa and he bought a ticket for Kansas City, promising to return on Monday.

Hays waited until yesterday and is out $15 for livery hire.

Bryant is 5 feet 8 inches high and weighs 160 pounds. He has black hair and eyes, a small black mustache and is of slender build. He wore a grayish suit of clothes, a black cap, new shoes that hurt his feet, and a long, black overcoat.

It was later discovered that Bryant is none other than C. F. Hoffman, train robber, who broke jail at Fayette, Mo.

His Fine Stayed.

Charles Crump, the colored man who was arrested by Officer Sheehan on complaint of Inspector McGauley of the Laclede Gas-Light Co., was fined $10 by Judge Paxson for disturbing the peace, but his honor stayed the fine after court. Crump was alleged to have threatened to kill Foreman P. J. McDarby of the Laclede Gas-Light Co. Because the latter ordered him away Wednesday from a trench where McDarby's gang was digging at Eleventh and Wash Streets.

HOW IT LOOKS.

Senator Faulkner Confident Congress Will Be Democratic.

His Committee Has Concluded the Work of the Campaign.

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO SPLIT THE DELEGATION FROM NEW YORK CITY.

Pressing Cullom Hard in Illinois—The Populists May Hold the Balance of Power in the Next Joint Assembly and Name a United States Senator—The Outlook in Kansas and Minnesota—Political Drift.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—Chairman Faulkner of the Congressional Campaign Committee regards the work of his committee as practically ended. The headquarters will be open here until election day, but there is little to do. Nearly all of the campaign literature has been sent out, and the balance of this week will be devoted merely to gathering information as to the progress of the campaign in the various districts and the probable outcome. The candidates will be kept posted and all encouraging news will be sent out where it will be of interest.

Mr. Faulkner is confident that the Democrats will have the next House by a good working majority, though he does not believe it prudent to make detailed estimates at this time.

The contest in New York is attracting close attention. The Republicans expect to gain several Congressmen in New York and Brooklyn, where two sets of Democratic candidates are running in nearly all the districts with a Republican who expects to slip in between them. The congressional districts in New York City are numbered from seven to sixteen inclusive. The districts that cover Long Island, Staten Island and other suburbs in that direction are numbered from one to six. In all of the sixteen except two, there are straight-out Republican candidates. In each of these there are two rival Democrats running, and the Republicans have indorsed the one that is opposed by the regular organization. In the Ninth District the anti-Tammany Democrats have indorsed the Republican nominee. In the Eighth and Eleventh the anti-Tammany candidate has withdrawn and it is expected that the Republican nominee will receive considerable Democratic support, although it is very doubtful if they give enough to elect them.

There are now no Republican representatives in Congress from the city of New York, but Republicans think the prospects are good for their having at least four of the ten in the next Congress, and also four of the six from Brooklyn and Long Island, where there is a solid Democratic delegation now.

Reports from Illinois say the Democrats claim that they will be able to carry the Legislature even if their State ticket is badly defeated. They have the advantage of a majority of three in the whole number of hold-over Senators, and under the new apportionment they expect to get a majority on joint ballot to elect the United States Senator to succeed Senator Cullom. They may be disappointed in this if conditions do not change radically; for, according to the judgment of old campaigners, the third party movement very likely will be strong enough to secure the balance of power for the Populists in the Lower House of the General Assembly, and perhaps in the whole body, they being able thereby to name the Senator.

Friends of Senator Voorhees, who were concerned about his health during the latter part of the session of Congress, feel greatly assured over the letters received here from him. He was unable to occupy his seat in the Senate for several weeks before adjournment, but he now writes that his condition is vastly improved.

Addressing Col. Richard J. Bright, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, Senator Voorhees says he has participated in the Indiana campaign to the extent of speaking for an hour and three-quarters for twenty-two days out of a possible twenty-five, mostly in the open air and to such crowds as he had never seen before. He adds that while the work has fatigued him very much he has "stood it wonderfully." He expects to go to the Arkansas Hot Springs at the conclusion of the Indiana campaign.

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 1.—Cook County has seven tickets in the field, and on how successful the People's party will be on members of the Legislature hinges the Senatorship.

The General Assembly numbers 204 members. Twenty-five Senators hold over, of whom fourteen are Democrats and eleven Republicans. This leaves 179 Senators and representatives to be elected next month. Cook County has fifteen of the Senatorial districts and three of the hold-over Senators, making fifty-seven members to be elected from this county and 122 from the State-at-large. Republicans have heretofore counted on the fact that the rural districts were mainly with them. By the last apportionment five of the districts were taken away from the country and put into Chicago, making a change of twenty members from the country districts to Cook County. With nearly one-third of the General Assembly concentrated within the boundaries of the county, there ought to be no question with an experienced politician as to the location of the battle-ground in the campaign. But the managers of the two principal parties have apparently been disposed to fight for the country districts, and have sent their speakers to all parts of the State. Chicago, however, is the place where the campaign will be lost or won.

Mrs. Grannis' Letter.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—J. Kennedy Tod, Treasurer of the Committee of Seventy, has received a characteristic letter from Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis of the Church Union. Mrs. Grannis received a letter from the seventies asking for pecuniary aid for campaign purposes. Her reply reads:

"I am in every respect fully equipped to render service as a watcher at the polls. I shall never contribute one dollar to any political fund until the franchise is given the female man in the same terms as to the male man. I have rendered constant service to elect the reform ticket. I shall cast my ballot for Strong, Goff and men to fill the lesser offices who are best fitted to occupy them. I shall cast my ballot through the hands of an LL. D., who had always voted the straight Democratic ticket."

Francis at Chillicothe.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Nov. 1.—Ex-Gov. D. R. Francis addressed the largest and most enthusiastic audience that has assembled in this city at the Opera-house. He was met at the depot by a large number of citizens headed by the Chillicothe Cornet Band, and during the day a reception was tendered him at the Leeper House. There was a large number of ladies present in the audience, and many were unable to gain admission to the hall. His speech greatly strengthened the Democracy here.

Vest at De Soto.

DE SOTO, Nov. 1.—Senator Geo. G. Vest delivered a two hours' speech last night in the Crawford Opera-house in this city. Every available space in the building was packed and many were turned away on account of no room. His speech was well received and will help swell the ranks of Democracy in this county.

BOTH CLAIM KANSAS.

Figures Given by Populist and Republican Campaign Managers.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 1.—Victory on Tuesday next is predicted by both Populists and Republicans. Chairman Leland of the Republican State Central Committee and Chairman Breidenthal of the Populist Committee both issued bulletins to-day claiming the election of their respective State tickets Tuesday. The Republican committee has not made a complete poll of the State, but bases its claims upon the information received from the committees of the 105 counties of the State. Chairman Leland says the Republicans will carry the State by from 25,000 to 40,000 plurality, elect all of the eight members of Congress and from eighty to ninety members of the Legislature, giving them a majority on joint ballot in the Legislature. Chairman Breidenthal is equally confident of success. He is now receiving a poll of every voting precinct in the State. He has heard from 900 of the 2,700 precincts and claims that the reports show a majority over the Republicans of over 9,000 and that the other 1,800 precincts will swell this majority to over 20,000. Upon this showing he claims the election of the congressman-at-large, and in the Third, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Districts, with an even chance in the First. He says the Populists will win the Legislature and elect a Populist to succeed Senator Martin. Republicans received advices to-day that a large amount of money has been scattered through fourteen close Representative Districts in western counties, and that if the Populists can carry the Legislature they intend to disorganize a dozen of the sparsely settled counties and thus cut off as many members who have heretofore been Republicans. This, they claim, would be good politics for future Senatorial purposes.

IN MINNESOTA.

A Dangerous Drift to the Candidates of the Populist Party.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 1.—The managers of the old parties are somewhat alarmed. The drift of the vote toward Owen, the Populist candidate for Governor, is growing heavier every day, and at Populist headquarters to-night they are making claims that Owen will be elected by a plurality exceeding 20,000. This movement of the vote toward Owen is not because of sudden popularity of the Populist candidates, but because of a feeling, which has become general the past ten days, that the Great Northern Railway Co. is in control of the leaders of both the old parties.

It now seems certain that Owen will receive 10,000 votes in St. Paul and not less than 15,000 in Minneapolis. Heavy increases for Owen are also reported from the country. A poll of Grant County, concluded yesterday, gives Becker, Democrat, but twenty-five votes. At the Republican State headquarters it is now admitted that the Seventh Congressional District will give a Populist majority of several thousand. The vote which is drifting over to the Populists has hitherto been largely Democratic, and it is already certain that Gen. Becker is hopelessly beaten. The Congressional fight is very hot in the Third, Sixth and Seventh Districts. The Third District Congressional Committee claims that Hall (Dem.) will carry the district by not less than 2,500. In the Sixth District the American Protestant Association is making a fight against Baldwin (Dem.), but the attitude of the organization is believed to be making votes for Baldwin. The contest will be very close between Towne and Baldwin, and neither will have a plurality of more than a few hundred. Best figures from the country indicate that the Legislature will have a small fusion majority.

Filley's Eulogy of Bartholdt.

HERMANN, Mo., Nov. 1.—Richard Bartholdt and Chauncey I. Filley spoke to a crowded house, mostly ladies, at this place last night. Mr. Bartholdt spoke for two hours, mainly about the Democratic free soup-houses, and Grover Cleveland telling the Coxeyites to keep off the grass. Mr. Filley made a short speech, mostly composed of praising Mr. Bartholdt for what he had done in Congress. He said: "We, in St. Louis, like the Dutchman (Mr. Bartholdt), and I think that from what you have heard him say this evening you will like him also." There were many Democrats present at the meeting.

Rally at Topeka, Ill.

TOPEKA, Ill., Nov. 1.—The Democrats of Marion County held a rally to-day at Topeka. Hon. T. T. Beach of Lincoln and Judge Thos. N. Mehan, candidate for County Judge, were the speakers.

Political Drift.

Vice-President Stevenson speaks at Joliet, Ill., to-night.

Ex-Mayor Grace has given $5,000 to the Hill campaign fund.

Tom L. Johnson challenged McKinley to joint debate at Cleveland on next Saturday evening.

At the Demorest contest at Bethel Church, near Albion, Ill., last evening, the medal was awarded to George Barnett.

Tamman's wigwam resounded with the oratory and cries of an old-fashioned rally on Wednesday night. Local favorites spoke.

William Hotes, Jr., and John Thorpe are under arrest in Tom Johnson's district in Ohio, charged with importing voters for Tom.

The Omaha World-Herald was permanently enjoined from withdrawing from a contract leasing certain columns to the Republican State Central Committee.

Eugene V. Debs delivered a Populist speech at Cleveland last night to a large audience in Saegerfest Hall. He left at 8 a. m. for Terre Haute, Ind.

Col. R. T. Vanhorn, Republican nominee for Congress in the Fifth District, spoke at Oak Grove, Mo., to a crowded house last night. He was followed by Col. Waters of Kansas City.

President Cleveland will make an exception in Congressman Wilson's case, allowing Government officials to help him out. He has contributed generously to Wilson's campaign expenses.

United States sailors at Mare Island, on ships in the harbor and at Benicia Arsenal will not be allowed to vote unless they had established residence in Vallejo, Cal., before entering the service.

A. O. Bacon, Patrick Walsh, L. F. Garrard, free silver advocates, and H. G. Turner, a Cleveland man, are candidates for Senator in Georgia. In case of a deadlock in caucus, Speaker Crisp may come in by a stampede.

The Attorney-General of Illinois decided that women of foreign birth might be naturalized or become citizens by marrying a citizen, and that women not registered may swear to their votes like male voters.

Very few women had their names placed on the register at the voting precincts in Edwards County, Ill., except at Brown's, where the judges understood it to be their duty to register all women whom they knew to be legal voters.

MATILDA HERMANN'S CASE.

Writ of Habeas Corpus Denied by Judge Lippincott.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 1.—Supreme Court Judge Lippincott to-day denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. Matilda Hermann, the Lexow witness, who is now under arrest in this city. Mrs. Hermann must remain in jail for thirty days, the term for which Judge Potts sentenced her.

The court decided that it had no power to release the woman in order to have her testify in another State. Judge Lippincott also stated that if the Lexow authorities wanted to have the woman released they would have to apply to Gov. Werts for a requisition. Mrs. Hermann was in court and said that if she should be released she was perfectly willing to go to New York and testify. Lawyer Barrickio of the Lexow Committee will probably make application to Gov. Werts for Mrs. Hermann's extradition.

Drayton Divorce Case.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 1.—Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton has filed her answer to her husband's petition for divorce, and denies generally and severally all his charges of infidelity with H. Alsop Borrowe and all other persons. She denies that she left her husband in London, but declares that he left her there on account of his cruel and unjust suspicions.

Legal Notes.

Albert Halloway, near Danville, Ill., is being sued for $10,000 for alienating the affections of Mrs. Charles Gorman.

Contest by ex-Atty.-Gen. Thompson's parents of his bequest of $60,000 worth of property to his wife is on at Fort Worth, Tex. The widow declares her husband was entirely sane when he made the will.

MRS. GALLUP DEAD.

For Many Years a Prominent Home Missionary Worker.

CLINTON, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Marilla Houghton Gallup died of apoplexy at Clinton early this morning. She was recently elected for the eighth time President of the Synodical Committee of the Women's Board of Home Missionaries of the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. H. L. Dixon.

ALBION, Ill., Nov. 1.—Dr. H. L. Dixon, a practitioner of forty years at this place and a few years at Hillsboro, Ill., died suddenly Sunday. Dr. Dixon was born in Philadelphia, Pa., seventy-six years ago.

Obituary Notes.

James Herdman, capitalist, died at Pittsburg.

Maj. Luin K. Thatcher, Kansas City lawyer, died, aged 57.

Henry M. Gossett, who served on the Monitor in Hampton Roads, died at Decatur.

Charles T. Cowden, member of the party that captured Jefferson Davis, died at Seattle, Wash.

Maj. Clint McClarty, founder of Louisville, Ky., clearing-house, and a gallant Confederate soldier, is dead.

Mrs. Eliza Coleman, a pioneer of Cole County, Ill., died near Elna, aged 92. She made her bridal trip from Grayson County, Ky., horseback, in February, 1829.

HOWEVER the people of Wisconsin may vote on national affairs, they will be very foolish if they repudiate a State administration which has almost completely wiped out State taxes of all kinds.

A CANDIDATE for Congress in the Fifth Kentucky District says he would "reinstate the McKinley tariff to-morrow." This is a bit of candor which other high tariff statesmen everywhere should imitate.

WHEN Mr. Quay contemplates the registration in Philadelphia which gives that city a population larger than New York, it inspires him with confidence of the possibility of bringing about a "fair count" in West Virginia.

THE tumble in sugar is a sore disappointment to the calamity howlers. They prophesied that it would immediately go up, up, up. The saccharine argument has been greatly missed from the speeches of Reed and McKinley.

SHOULD the Burlington road succeed in electing Majors Governor of Nebraska it will be a striking evidence of corporation power. The record of Majors is so heavy with fraud that only a locomotive can pull him to the State-house.

THERE is a prolonged wail because 234 steers and 50 cows are said to have been shipped to the United States from Mexico since the McKinley law was repealed. What a disaster it would be if Mexico should ever wish to annex herself to this country!

THE country was aware of the $50,000,000 deficiency in the Treasury at the close of Mr. Harrison's term, but it did not know that the work of preparing plates for an issue of new bonds had been begun at that time. Poor Mr. Foster had a world of trouble brought on him through the extravagance of his party.

WHILE charges are made that the Administration has been saving Uncle Samuel's money by cutting off pensions, the official reports show that new pensions are constantly being granted, while others are being increased. There is an unusual amount of political clap-trap in the campaign speeches this year.

IF the Pullman company has discharged 100 employes and informed them that they will not be taken back if the election should result in the [defeat] of Mr. Pullman's party, the Pull[man] corporation will be further endeared [to] the party's one-sided way of running elections lic. Philanthropy, when carried into politics, may accomplish more than when it purchases legislation.

GERNEZ says that the word has gone down the line that he has got to be elected. So it appears from the rallying cry of fraud with which the Old Pretender is shaking the atmosphere. But the fraud bugaboo cannot divert attention from the hoodlum plot to install a friend in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Any legally conducted movement to prevent or punish election frauds, regardless of party favor, has always had the hearty support of the POST-DISPATCH, and we don't believe that any Democrat or Republican convicted of such frauds in this election will ever get a pardon or commutation from Gov. Stone. Recent amendments to our laws have made it more easy to discover, prove and punish ballot-box crimes. With a Republican Circuit Attorney, elected with the support of the Globe-Democrat, to prosecute all such cases, that paper ought not to fear that Democratic ballot-box stuffers will be permitted with impunity to get ahead of the Republican ballot-box stuffers in this election.

BREAD AND MEAT TRUSTS.

A dispatch from Cincinnati states that the bakers of that city, following the example of those of Washington and New York, are reducing the price of bread. A cut of one-half has been made.

Recent statistics issued by the Department of Agriculture show that the price of bread is inordinately high in proportion to the cost of production. Although the cost of flour has greatly cheapened, the price of bread has remained the same and is now about five times as great as the actual cost of material and labor. The enormous profit is divided between the bakers and the dealers.

But the bakers claim that the price is regulated by the grocers, who buy their bread cheap, but sell at a fixed retail price which will insure them a large profit. The price can only be fixed and maintained by a combination of middlemen, which is unlawful. But the middlemen have a tempting example of combination in the monster cracker trust which controls both the output and price of nearly all bakers' products except bread.

The Cracker Trust violates the Federal anti-trust law. It has branches in the State of Missouri in violation of the State anti-trust law. There is no more outrageous and oppressive combination than one which fixes the price of foods—bread or meat; yet there are combinations to rob the people on both of these necessaries in defiance of law and justice. They snap their fingers at the law.

A LEGAL BONFIRE.

The Municipal Assembly will probably have a most embarrassing problem before it in connection with the ordinance relating to the Union Station. It will have to move the Union Station forty feet back from its present site or declare the ordinance which it passed fixing the building's site invalid.

Able as the Municipal Assembly has proved itself in the matter of dealing with corporations we do not believe it will be equal to the task of moving the new Union Station or even of making such an essay at it as will move the Terminal Railroad to enter into negotiations with the Assembly for the preservation of its magnificent station. The ordinance will have to be declared invalid.

The first public declaration by a Legislature of the invalidity of its ordinance in relation to a corporation should be made with solemn and appropriate ceremonies, fitly symbolizing the invalidity of all laws and ordinances relating to corporations. Let a public bonfire be made of corporation laws. Pile on it not only the ordinances of the city of St. Louis, but many of the laws of the State of Missouri and the United States—the anti-trust laws, State and Federal, the anti-railroad combine law, the interstate commerce law and the host of statutes which have become by words of contempt.

Let us have a holocaust of trust and corporation statutes to signalize the recognition of the fact that no law is valid against a powerful corporation which chooses to violate it. Then let us fire the official tools of the corporations.

A FRAUD HOWL.

In a double-leaded article denouncing Gov. Stone, Recorder of Voters Higgins and the police for alleged preparations to carry St. Louis by fraud, the Old Pretender indulges in the following threat of a riotous uprising of citizens to sweep Democratic officials from the face of the earth:

> When once aroused on the subject the popular wrath will be hard to appease. The police force will not be equal to the emergency. A riot in which every good citizen is a rioter will be hard to suppress. The answering echo to Gov. Stone's declaration that the prime object of civil Government in Missouri is to keep the Democratic party in power, and that whatever contributes to this result is good, will be a loud popular cry, which will demand for the people a fair election, or, in default of that, a free fight.

We do not quote this threatening tirade for the purpose of defending any guilty Democrat or of indorsing the Old Pretender's opinion that a riot and a free fight are necessary to secure the blessings of the franchise and a fair election. That has not been necessary since the Republican party was put down in Missouri. The Democratic bosses in this city are bad enough, but the worst of them are no worse than the Republican bosses. In fact we do not believe there is a Democratic rascal who can compare as to bold adroitness in naturalization frauds, registration frauds, ballot-box stuffing or any other kind of election deviltry with Republican experts with whom the Old Pretender has recently struck hands for the benefit of the party.

The quotation is interesting, however, as showing how thin is the veneer of the Old Pretender's law and order hypocrisy. The paper which, in the interest of corporations, invariably shrieks for troops to intimidate strikers and demands that the strike be shot full of holes, is now, in the interest of the Republican machine, threatening a free fight and inciting violent resistance to the State authorities, with "good citizens" as rioters.

But there is no danger of and no necessity for a riotous uprising of good citizens to protect the ballot-box from frauds. There are legal and orderly methods of doing that. The Old Pretender's howl merely means that the situation is getting desperate and that some of the bosses' "yellow dog" candidates are on the edge of defeat. They want a rally at the polls and the Old Pretender has been ordered to yell fraud in order to prepare the Republican stomach for the swallowing of the whole Republican ticket, including the bosses' judicial pill, Flitcraft, and even the nauseous Gernez dose which the hoodlums forced upon the party and which the Old Pretender has covered with mud.

THE Hon. Ephraim Houston's Eagles have found the Republican nominees more "favorable" since the denunciatory speech by Eagle Owens. Hogging campaign money and giving fat offices to Col. Abe Slupsky has nearly driven the Eagles into "interdependence." A useful political club may want to be loyal and yet not wish to pay its own expenses in an expensive campaign.

SIX men are running for Governor in New York, but only two are much considered. The race is between Wolfert's Roost and Rhinecliff-on-Hudson. David Hill's great political experience is pitted against Levi Morton's bar'l and John James Howard. Had Mr. Morton been permitted to take only his bar'l into the campaign it might have been better for Mr. Hill.

MAYOR HOPKINS of Chicago is prosecuting Senator Cullom's lieutenant, John R. Tanner, Chairman of the Illinois Republican Central Committee, because Mr. Tanner, in a light and airy manner, wrote a political circular denouncing the Mayor as a blackmailer. It may be quite unpleasant for Mr. Tanner should he fail to prove the charge.

IT was a great relief to John Boyd Thacher to be able to announce that a pressure of business would keep Mr. Carlisle in Washington until after the election. The strain on Mr. Thacher since the doubt about the Administration's position set in has been more than most statesmen would have survived.

IT looks as if there is to be another dry time in South Carolina. Mr. Olney rules that a South Carolina Sheriff can not take whisky from a bonded warehouse by paying the tax. Gov. Tillman's dispensaries appear always to be running up against some law or some lawyer that destroys their usefulness.

FOLLOWING a game of foot ball the entire system of athlete Mr. Silliman of Ohio broke down, and after lingering for two years he has passed away. He appeared to be a very healthy, robust person, but it seems that there are those to whom foot ball is not invigorating.

The Record says that twenty years hence Chicago will have a bigger population than all the State of New York. It has been noticed for some time that Chicago's population is very much out in the State.

IF Chicago really expects to be the greatest American city, the dumping of her filth into streams that will carry the poisonous stuff to other communities is a very poor beginning for her greatness.

THE President could give an estimate of the number of turkeys that will be required by the American people on the 29th, but he is not likely to attempt to give any figures on the vote of New York.

THE Indian Territory lady who wears a six-shooter and a bowie-knife and carries a Winchester, and who recently held up three men, will be a power should she ever appear in politics.

DON M. DICKINSON, the friend of Grover Cleveland, has sent Mr. Hill a check with four figures on it, but even this does not seem to have aroused the President's enthusiasm.

TOM JOHNSON has challenged Mr. McKinley to a joint debate in Cleveland on Saturday night, but Mr. McKinley's speciality is the solitary in political discussion.

BAD management of municipal business has driven Montreal to tax churches. The Canadian tax-payer is evidently as indolent as his American brother.

THE "yellow dog" who would retire from the hopeful ticket in an off year would consider himself as lacking in sagacity.

Our Disfigured Court-House.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Our Court-house is to be freshened up with several coats of paint. It needs all the authorities will give it. When it presents a decent appearance once more cannot something be done to to keep it decent. The stone walls are now disfigured with a variety of signs. Cannot these be regulated as to size and a general uniformity be adopted. Look at the legacy some former Sheriff has left us of a sign sprawling along the whole depth of the north wing, and look at the disgraceful condition of the walls at the sides of the east and west entrances, all plastered over with legal notices. Why cannot bulletin boards be provided for these, and thus keep the notices within bounds, as in other places. Is there a custodian in charge of such matters? If so why should he allow candidates for office to stick up their calls to voters on the entrance to the Sheriff's office or to stick their pasters on the walls of the building or the glass of the doors. If candidates for office can thus use the walls and doors of the Court-house for their private advertisement why should not other classes of citizens have the same privilege. The whole place is in a disgracefully disreputable condition, but with our fresh coat of paint let us turn over a new leaf and try to keep clean.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Plays for Next Week—Julia Marlowe's New Bill.

Felix Morris begins a week's engagement at the Olympic next Sunday evening. The success of this artist has been won by most wonderful versatility and thorough conception of the absolute requirements and perhaps restriction demanded by the divers characters he depicts. One of the most remarkable features of Mr. Morris' acting is the astonishing flexibility and change of voice of which he is capable. The voice assumed in one character and never for an instant neglected is entirely different in another part. Recognition by such a means would well nigh be impossible. In this engagement Mr. Morris will again be seen in that delightful characterization of M. Jacques in "The Old Musician," to be followed with a broadly contrasting character as Price Futtlow in "The Best Man," a farcical comedy in three acts, which has met with success wherever it has been given this season. It has proven one of the strongest drawing cards of the season in England, where Mr. John S. Toole first produced the work in London. It scored a run of 100 consecutive nights. Mr. Morris will be surrounded with an admirable cast, including a few of those seen in his engagement last season, together with others carefully chosen for their respective roles. The play will be handsomely dressed and staged, and during the week another new comedy entitled "Behind the Scenes" will be given a showing.

On Monday the sale of seats for the season of Rehan's engagement will begin at the Olympic. Only season tickets will be sold for the first week, and after that the sale will begin for the disposal of single seats. The season subscriptions, including six night performances, will be $10. The maximum price for single tickets will be $2.

Dave Henderson's magnificent spectacle "Aladin, Jr.," will come to the Grand at the close of the Marlowe engagement Nov. 11. During the next week Miss Marlowe will be seen in "Romeo and Juliet," "Lone Chase," "Twelfth Night," "School for Scandal."

Pete Baker, the German-American comedian, will be at Havlin's next week in his newly constructed "Chris and Lena," a play in which he is the German to life.

Sunday afternoon will mark the commencing of a week's engagement of the Pascall sisters, the whirlwind dancers, at Pope's Theater. In addition to the famous specialties, there will appear in the olio the two Aherns in their great ladder act, Post and Clinton, Gilbert Sarony, Tom Mack, monologue comedian, Lulu Theis, Maggie Lee Clark, Flora Hastings and a number of others. The dramatic company will be seen in the well known and stirring melodrama, "The Hoop of Gold."

Gus Hill's Novelties will be the attraction next week at the Standard. This combination in years past has had a high reputation, and it is claimed for it that it has not been allowed to retrograde. Gus Hill and his dumbbells will be along, together with Hacker and Lester, two bicycle freaks; Wills and Halpin, Estelle Wellington and a dozen others.

The favorite, Robert Gaylor, who is considered one of the funniest and most original comedians on the stage, and a superior company, will present the farcical skit, "Sport McAllister," at the Hagan, beginning Sunday matinee.

The specialties introduced are said to be of the highest order. The company includes among others Gilbert and Goldie, A. J. O'Brien, Marie Laurens, and the well-known soubrettes Mabel Craig, Kathleen Warren and Maggie Fielding.

MARLOWE IN COMEDY AND TRAGEDY.—Julia Marlowe played a double bill at the Grand last night. After three acts of the lightest of comedy in "The Belle's Stratagem," where as Letitia Hardy she rollicked and frolicked in the merriest way, she turned to that terribly sad little tragedy of "Chatterton" and became the heart broken and fever brained boy poet. The contrast is most striking and certainly served its presumable purpose—to show the star's remarkable versatility.

"The Belle's Stratagem" is a clever conceit, but little opportunity is given to any one save Miss Marlowe. She acted her role very prettily, her assumption of simpleness being especially clever and laughable. Mr. Taber's effort to appear mad was also a deserving piece of work and, as the author has worked out the plot, was most ridiculous. "The Belle's Stratagem" is the very lightest of comedy, but it pleases both the eye and the ear as interpreted last night.

In "Chatterton" Miss Marlowe had an excellent opportunity to display her higher powers, and the little tragedy was effectively presented. The star's reading of Chatterton's poem on melancholy was beautifully done.

To-morrow night "As You Like It" will be produced.

A NEW LEADING LADY.—Miss Celia Allsburg will assume the position of leading lady in Pope's Theater Stock company on Nov. 11. Miss Jessaline Rogers, the present leading lady, retires from the company on that date. Miss Allsburg is well known to theater-goers, having starred with Mr. Lewis Morrison for several seasons, and has been connected with various companies of a high order of merit.

DRAMATIC CLUB FORMED.—The Versatile Dramatic Club has organized for the season, with the following members: Misses Nancy Curry, Bertha Budde, Lillie Neibling and Josie Peckham; Messrs. J. D. Hamilton, Herbert Samuels, C. J. Moser, L. E. Walther and Louis Fischoff. Mr. Hamilton is President, Miss Budde, Vice-President and Mr. Samuels, Secretary and Treasurer. The club has for its director Prof. E. L. McDowell.

OLLIE HAGAN'S LUCK.—The Cincinnati papers declare that Ollie Hagan's "A Summer Blizzard," which was put on at Havlin's, in that city, last Monday night, is a great hit. Miss Nellie Rosebud was especially well noticed. Mr. Hagan brings his show to St. Louis for the week of Nov. 11. Of course it will be seen at the Hagan.

SOUSA'S NEW MARCH.—A director of the Exposition, who has just returned from Chicago, states that "The Directorate," Sousa's new march, is spreading the fame of St. Louis and its Exposition. Sousa played it to crowded houses in every city he visited on his southern tour, which he has just completed, and Chicagoans, who heard it for the first time at the Auditorium a few nights ago, demanded a vociferous encore of it, and would not be satisfied until it was repeated four times.

REED'S VIEW OF THE RIVER.

A Picture of the Mississippi at Flood Tide Was Given Him.

A pleasant incident connected wit Thomas B. Reed's visit to St. Louis has just become known. On Monday afternoon, the Czar was observed walking up and down the levee below Eads bridge, with his hands crossed behind and a Napoleonic look of destiny on his face as he gazed intently on the never ceasing stream. What mighty thoughts were inspired by this symbol of eternity and resistless force only the Czar can tell. Perhaps he was wondering whether he could not be carried into the Presidential chair on an equally resistless tide.

Mr. Stephen M. Burke and the editor of the St. Louis Waterways Journal, who have adjoining offices at the Levee and Washington avenue, observed the Czar and thought they detected a look of disappointment that seemed to say: "Is the Father of Waters then so small?"

They were unwilling that the Czar should carry away with him a low water impression of the Mississippi, and Mr. Burke sent him a photograph of the river in 1892, when it ran twelve miles wide and people got into their houses by means of skiffs. He sent the photograph to the ex-Speaker and is now the proud owner of the following and autograph letter from Mr. Reed, written on Oct. 30, from the Southern Hotel:

MY DEAR SIR—I am very much obliged by your kindness in sending me the photograph of a "full flood." and I shall keep it to remind me of my first visit to St. Louis. With thanks, yours truly,

T. B. REED.

FOUND DEAD.

Willie Campbell Supposed to Have Committed Suicide.

HIS BODY FOUND IN HIS ROOM ON MARKET STREET.

He Claimed to Have Come Here From Minneapolis About Ten Days Ago—Was in Arrears for His Lodging and Promised to Pay—He Was Shot Near the Heart and a Revolver Found by His Side—The Lodgers' Statements.

About 7 o'clock a. m. a man, who gave the name of Willie Campbell, was found dead in his room at Pierre Lambert's lodging-house, 2020 Market street. Death was caused by a bullet wound in the left breast in the region of the heart and an American bull-dog revolver of cheap make, 38-caliber, with one chamber discharged, which was found lying on a chair beside the bed, gives rise to the theory of suicide. When discovered the body was cold and rigid, showing that the man had been dead several hours.

Campbell registered at Lambert's house on Oct. 2 and has been living there ever since. He told the proprietor that he had recently come from Minneapolis, where he had been employed as a miller. When he engaged board at Lambert's he was without funds, but was allowed to remain on his promise to settle his account at the end of the week. Yesterday was the day for him to pay up, and Lambert says that when he asked Campbell for the amount due he said he would pay it in the evening.

HE WENT TO BED.

Soon after supper Campbell went to bed and nothing more was seen of him until he was discovered dead in the morning.

When he failed to put in an appearance at breakfast time, Louis Gottlieb, a waiter, went to his room to call him. On receiving no response to his repeated knocking at the door, he mounted a chair and peered over the transom and saw Campbell lying stretched upon his face upon the bed. Policeman Bart Kianey was notified, who forced the door, and upon finding the man dead, notified the Coroner and had the body removed to the Morgue. When discovered the man was fully dressed, with the exception of his shoes, which were lying on the floor at the foot of the bed. He was apparently about 35 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, smooth shaven, freckled face, and was dressed in a neat, dark sack suit. A valise containing a quantity of clean underclothes, etc., was found in the room. The only article of value found in the pockets of the deceased was a gold-filled, open-faced watch. A card of Alonzo Phillips, candidate for Sheriff of Hennepin County, Minn., was also found in one of his pockets, in the back of which was written in pencil the name, "Matt Dempsey, 1206 Second street, Minneapolis." A business card of P. Gallnet, a second-hand dealer, at 5 South Seventh street, St. Louis, was also found in one of his pockets.

HEARD A SHOT.

Both the proprietor of the lodging-house and Michael O'Connell, a lodger whose room adjoined Campbell's, say they thought they heard a shot about midnight, but as it appeared to come from the alley in the rear of the house they did not pay any attention to it. Mr. Lambert said that the deceased was troubled with an affliction of the throat that rendered it difficult for him to articulate distinctly.

The theory is that the man became despondent owing to his inability to secure work, and being unable to pay his board, took his life as a solution to his troubles.

AN ADJOINING LODGER.

The room in which the body was found is a small box-like apartment, and the partition which separates it from the room adjoining it in the rear only extends to within about three feet of the ceiling. This latter room was occupied during the night by a man who registered as J. Murray, Mystic, Io., who went to bed about 1:30 a. m. and left in the morning before the discovery of the body. He said nothing about having heard any shot during the night.

FROM THE NOTE BOOKS.

Interesting Incidental Sketches of the Daily Work of Newsgathering.

COLORS OF CITIES.—"The color of St. Louis is very white," said a local artist, who has traveled much, to the reporter. "I mean," he continued, "that look down on this city from a height sufficient to give you a good bird's-eye view and it will have a distinctly white effect. The color of Chicago, from the observation point at the top of the Masonic Temple, is sooty-drab, and so is San Francisco from any of the summits of its seven hills. Washington, when seen from the monument or from a porch at Arlington, looks green; while Boston, looked at from the hills back of Cambridge, is gray. Philadelphia, from the scaffolding of the new City Hall tower, is red, and Baltimore, as you get a glimpse of it from Druid Hill, is also red, but a deeper red—something approaching burnt sienna."

EXPENSIVE BATH.—Tramps and vagrants are not so much afraid of water as their appearances would indicate. A dilapidated-looking individual was arraigned in the Second District Police Court the other day charged with taking a bath in the fountain of Carr Park.

"Yes," admitted the tramp, "I have slept in the park and bathed in the fountain, but you can't blame me, for I have no other place to sleep and bathe. If I had work I could afford a bed and a bath in the proper place."

The Judge thought differently, and fined the "Wandering Willie" $50 and costs.

CORNMEAL PREJUDICE.—"It is a curious fact that the Irish have a deep-seated prejudice against cornmeal as an article of diet," observed Fred Fodde recently. "I am told that divorce proceedings may result from the fact that the child of a union of an Irishman and a Southern woman is occasionally fed cornmeal by the mother. His prejudice against the dish is so strong that he seriously contemplates an appeal to the courts for the exclusive custody of his little daughter in order to prevent its being fed the 'nayghur truck.'"

COLORED WOMEN VOTERS.—The registration of female voters in Illinois made one fact plain, that the colored women are more anxious to exercise the right of the ballot than their white sisters. The number of colored women registering was in excess of that of white females throughout the State. In Brooklyn, the negro village above East St. Louis, the fact stated was astonishingly illustrated. All the women of proper age registered, and the result showed 240 females and only 197 males on the poll-books.

Prof. Snow's Lectures.

Prof. Marshall S. Snow will begin on Nov. 5 a series of Monday evening lectures, to be illustrated with good photographs, on "The Building of the Cathedrals," "The Church of St. Mark, Venice," "Venice and the Commerce of the Middle Ages," "Venice and the Mediæval Marr," "Modern Venice and its Historical Suggestions."

Lectures will begin at Memorial Hall, Locust and Nineteenth streets, promptly at 8 p. m. Course and single tickets will be sold.

Two Alleged Bogus Sisters.

Two women wearing the garb of Sisters of St. Mary's Hospital are said to be canvassing the city and selling tickets for a raffle of two gold watches in the interest of charity. They are said to be frauds who have no authority for their petitions for money.

All-Day Prayer Meeting Friday.

An all-day prayer meeting will be held at the White Cross Home, Garrison avenue and Thomas street. The services will begin at 10 a. m. and continue until 4 p. m. Many ministers will attend and take part in the exercises.

MEN OF MARK.

Rutherford B. Hayes, son of the ex-President, was married last week in Columbus, O., to his second cousin, Mrs. Lucy Hayes Platt, a wealthy widow of that city.

Harry Furniss says he is going to start a humorous paper in London because times have changed in England, and "what was called comic" no longer satisfied the people there.

Canon Bowles, among other eccentricities, was absent-minded. On one occasion he gave a bible to a young woman in the village and wrote on the fly-leaf, "From the author." He had been in the habit of giving copies of his poems with this inscription.

John Jacob Astor, who has a strong taste for machinery, took charge of the passenger engine on the Illinois Central Railroad last week, and, it is said, drove it the hundred miles between Fort Dodge and Sioux City, Io., at a rate that often dazed the regular engineer.

Charles Brigham, who was appointed a clerk in the mailing department of the Boston Post-office when Martin Van Buren had just entered upon his term as President of the United States, is still there, after fifty-six consecutive years of service, bright, vigorous and looking fully ten years younger than the 80 he has seen.

Phosphorescent Glow.

Pictet, the French chemist, whose recent researches on the properties and behavior of various substances at extremely low temperatures have attracted so much attention, now finds that phosphorescent bodies cease to glow under such circumstances. Where powdered sulfide of lime—the material used in the so-called "luminous paint"—was placed in a tube, it glowed as usual in the dark after exposure to the sun's rays, but when the tube was lowered into liquid nitrous oxid at —140 deg. F., the glow was quenched. The phosphorescence did not reappear even when the tube was removed from the cold liquid, but it returned when the sulfid had become heated again.

Champagne.

Champagne ought to be cheaper. In the cellars of the Marne district in France there are now stored 150,000,000 bottles of the sparkling fluid, enough to supply the whole world for six years. This does not include the vintage of 1894, nor all the sparkling wine product of France. There is an immense quantity of all French wines on hand, a result of fine vintages for seven consecutive years.

It is probable La Salle was the first white man to look on the present site of Pittsburg, and George Washington was the first to describe it.

The extinction of the Indian title to that portion of Pennsylvania lying north and west of the Ohio and Allegheny Rivers was secured in 1784.

Electricity and Chemistry.

Electrical processes, according to the Electrical World, are coming to be applied more and more in chemical operations, particularly in Germany and France, where electrochemistry is growing rapidly in favor, both as a branch of theoretical study, and as a factor in chemical manufacture. Besides the electrolytic disinfecting process, processes have recently been perfected for the production, by electrical decomposition of soda, chlorate of potash, sulphuric acid and bleaching materials, and for the electrolytic pulverization of dyes. There are evidences, too, that American chemists do not intend to allow foreigners to reap all the honors and rewards in this new and promising field.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD.

Two new $1,000 scholarships have been established at Princeton by Mrs. McCormick of Chicago.

At the ladies' meeting of the Church Congress Canon Knox-Little declared that "he would never let a daughter of his ride a bicycle."

Mrs. Christina Bordner celebrated her birthday at her home, near Lewistown, on Friday. She was married in 1810, and her husband, who died in 1881, lived to be almost 100 years old. She has thirteen children, grandchildren and 278 great-grandchildren living.

Jane Barlow, whose "Irish Idylls," published two years ago, brought her to the attention of the reading public, has lived all her life in Ireland, though her ancestors came from Germany and Normandy. Her father, the Rev. Dr. James Barlow, is the Senior Master Non-Regent of the University of Dublin, and a well-known Greek scholar.

Miss Beatrice Harraden, author of "Ships That Pass in the Night," is slowly recuperating among friends on a ranch near San Diego. She was recently the bright center of attraction at a dinner given by Charles Nordhoff. Miss Harraden admits that her own experience at a health resort suggested the young woman in "Ships," and promises, too, that her forthcoming story is to be about healthy persons. She still suffers much inconvenience from paralysis of the right forearm, brought on by playing the violoncello.

Fruitarians.

Herr Boeter, an ex-Lieutenant in the German army, now tells us that vegetarianism is altogether too wide; we must be "fruitarians" if we wish to find sanitary salvation. His disciples live altogether on fruit, which they take au naturel or cooked, and some of the more ardent spirits are eager to simplify their mode of life still further by going naked and living in huts. As, however, the exigencies of the climate and too artificial civilization stand somewhat in the way of the realization of this Arcadian ideal, Herr Boeter has, it is stated, gone to Hawaii in the hope of finding an island where he can establish a colony of "fruitarians" who will be able to enjoy the sweet simplicity of their system without fear of bronchitis or the police.

African Mammals.

An English committee of sportsmen and naturalists is taking in hand the protection of South African mammals—the giraffe, zebra, eland, gnu, koodoo and other antelopes—against their threatened extinction. A suggested method of accomplishing this is to secure an inclosed park of about 100,000 acres.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

Fire is sometimes put out by throwing in it a very combustible powder, which quickly fills the room with gas and smothers out the fire.

Some scientists think the inhabitants of Mars are more cultivated and moral than those of the earth because they have more light.

A unique trolley-car fender is proposed by a Boston inventor. He has taken the large revolving brushes from a street-sweeper and placed them in such a position under the car that a person who happens to fall in front of the car will be swept from the track.

Coffee has been found by a German investigator to possess marked germicidal properties. Pure coffee of the ordinary strength in which it is utilized as a beverage killed cholera bacilli in three hours and typhus bacilli in twenty-four hours. The anti-bacterial substances seem to be developed in the coffee-bean by the roasting process.

An English paper tells of a Manchester man who carries on his person a complete museum of electric appliances, including a burglar alarm—or, rather, a pickpocket alarm—system. An attempt to steal his scarf-pin or watch rings a tiny bell; a fine platinum coil furnishes the means of lighting a cigar regardless of the weather, and an incandescent lamp at the end of a cane furnishes very good light when needed. The needful electric plant weighs only about twenty-two ounces.

Reason's Whole Pleasure.

Reason's whole pleasure, all the joys of sense,
Lie in three words—health, peace and competence;
But health consists of temperance alone,
And peace, O virtue, peace is all thy own.—POPE.

Anti-Cholera Inoculation.

The health officer of Calcutta has submitted a memorandum to the municipality, in which he states that the experience gained during the last three months in Calcutta as well as the observations made during the recent epidemic of cholera in Cawnpore and Dinapore afford strong additional evidence of the protective value of the system of preventive inoculation. The method, it is true, failed at Lucknow, but the failure there has been greatly exaggerated, and the results of that epidemic only teach the necessity of using virus of a higher protective power and of having a special laboratory for its preparation.

Costly Curiosity.

A New York cigar dealer put a new device for cutting off the ends of cigars in his store, recently, which surprised the user by snapping off the end of the cigar the moment it was put into one of the holes without the necessity of exerting the usual pressure. A number of customers, unthinkingly, poked their fingers into the holes to find out what was there, and, as a result, when the machine was opened in the evening, a quantity of tips of fingers were found mixed in with the cigar ends.

Some Old Orchards.

It is the common belief that the peach tree is necessarily of short life, but there are some very old orchards on the Delaware Peninsula, and single trees have been known to bear for a great many years. A Sussex County peach-grower has an orchard thirty years old, and in good peach years it yields abundantly.

Business Reformers.

Business is rushing with a repairer of bicycles whose shop is on a road much frequented by wheelmen, between Brooklyn and Coney Island. It is said he makes a trade for himself by carefully sprinkling about six pounds of tacks every day in the road near his shop.

EATEN BY HOGS.

Horrible Death Which Befell Mrs. Shepherd in Alabama.

JASPER, Ala., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Emma Shepherd, widow of the late Probate Judge of Walker County, went out into her horse lot to feed her chickens. She did not return in time for breakfast and her daughter went to find her, when her eyes were met by the horrible spectacle of her mother's mangled body lying on the ground with a lot of Berkshire hogs feeding on her head.

It is thought a vicious boar knocked her down, trying to get at the pan of meal in her hands, and he and the rest of the swine trampled her to death and munched at parts of her body on which the meal fell.

FOREIGN FINANCE.

Changes in the Bank of England Compared With Previous Account.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England, issued to-day, shows the following changes as compared with the previous account: Total reserve, decrease, £928,000; circulation, increase, £355,000; bullion, decrease, £576,389; other securities, decrease, £131,000; other deposits, decrease, £127,000; public deposits, increase, £150,000; notes reserve, decrease, £953,000; government securities, decrease, £69,000. The proportion of the Bank of England's reserve to liability, which last week was 63.07 per cent, is now 62.55 per cent.

NEEDS RAIN.

Wheat Not Doing Well in the Fields of Kentucky.

ARLINGTON, Ky., Nov. 1.—The wheat crop is suffering very much for want of rain. We have not had any rain in this section for six weeks. There is some talk of the fly working on the wheat also. If we do not have rain soon lots of the wheat that is up will perish for want of moisture. Not over half of a crop sown. The corn is not turning out near so well as was expected. There will not be over half of a crop in this section. Wheat feeding has been going on very extensively. There is no wheat in farmers' hands for sale.

The Deer Escaped.

CHILLICOTHE, Ill., Nov. 1.—A wild deer, chased by dogs from the river bottom roads, caused great excitement in this city to-day by running through the business streets and over the private lawns. Men and boys joined in the hunt, but the deer evaded capture and disappeared in the woods.

Week Cotton Palace.

Nov. 6th, 13th, 20th and 27th, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway will sell tickets to Waco at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, good for return until Dec. 8. City Ticket Office, 108 North Broadway.

WABASH SURGEONS.

Their Twelfth Annual Session at the Southern Hotel.

The twelfth annual meeting of Wabash Railway Surgeons came to order at the Southern Hotel at 9:30 a. m. It is the oldest railroad surgeons' society in existence. There were present Drs. George F. Beasly of Lafayette, Ind., President; C. B. Stemer of Fort Wayne, Ind., Secretary and Treasurer; H. W. Moorehouse of Danville, Chief of Surgeons, and about twenty others, including the authors of papers to be read and Drs. H. O. Howard of Champaign, Ill.; F. H. Broughton of Wolcottville, Ind.; J. N. Dixon of Springfield, Ill.; T. B. Campbell of West Lebanon, Ind.; H. H. Middlecamp of Warrenton, Mo.; J. L. Rice of Attica, Ind.; J. C. Thorne of Toledo, President of the National Association of Railway Surgeons; P. H. Barton of Danville, Ill.; W. H. Harrison of Toledo, W. R. Van Hook of Springfield, Ill., and others.

The programme included the following papers: "Injuries to the Head," Dr. W. A. McCandless of St. Louis; "Ununited Fractures," Dr. Miles F. Porter of Fort Wayne; "Amputations," Dr. E. R. Lewis of Kansas City; "Injuries to the Hands and Feet," Dr. W. H. Bell of Logansport, who, however, was not present; "Trephining of the Spine in Cases of Fracture, With Reports of Cases," Dr. C. B. Stemen; "Burns," Dr. W. F. Barres of Sidney, Ill.; a paper by Dr. J. W. Jackson.

The meeting was only for the day.

Speaking of the propriety of a separate railway surgeons' society Dr. Dixon of Springfield, Ill., said: "It might seem that a wound is a wound and needs treating by well established methods. Still railway surgery has to deal with more wounds of a certain character than than the average city surgeon, for instance wounds by mashing, crushing, bruising. Naturally familiarity with this class of wounds develops specialized methods of treatment. The chief distinguishing characteristic of the railway surgeon, however, is the circumstance in which he is often called upon to act. It is very different from operating in a well-appointed hospital with a corps of trained nurses and assistants. One must have his wits well sharpened as well as his instruments, and both ready for instant action."

SUFFERING FROM HUNGER.

Luigi Revelli Fatally Shoots Himself in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Luigi Revelli, son of a rich widow of Turin, Italy, and an ex-officer of the Italian army, shot himself fatally in the office of Cristoforo Columbo last night. It is said he had been on the verge of dying with hunger and desired to end his sufferings.

He had come to the office the previous day and asked to have certain manuscripts published and evinced great disappointment because the paper refused to publish the articles, giving an account of why he proposed to Fill himself. While talking to a reporter about the matter he fired the fatal shot. Gambling is said to have been the cause of his straightened circumstances.

Weary of Life.

Annie Anton, young and divorced, hanged herself at her father's home at Birmingham, Ala.

James Shewen, a Scotch stone-cutter, walked into the Ocone River at Athens, Ga., and drowned. He had been disappointed in a love affair.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED.

The Discretionary Pools at Pittsburg Paying Patrons.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—Dividends were declared by some of the discretionary pools here to-day. The American syndicate paid 5 per cent, the United States Syndicate 11 per cent and the Pittsburg 9¼ per cent. Geo. M. Irwin & Co. made no dividend. These are not as large dividends as the pools have been paying.

Shot Himself.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 1.—The city is excited over the suicide of Gallus Mueller, chief clerk of the prison. He shot himself at 6 o'clock this morning while in bed. He was universally liked and highly connected.

KNOWLEDGE
Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.
Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.
Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

LUTHERANS OF GERMANY.

The Emperor Offers Suggestions Through Count Schwerin.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Count Zeithen-Schwerin, President of the Lutheran Church, has informed the Lutherans of Germany that the Kaiser, in a recent address to the presidents and vice-presidents of the church, said that the labors of the General Synod would be blessed if that body worked in a spirit of reconciliation. They rested upon a different basis from political bodies and must not act from party motives. He hoped that the churches would be open at other times than during the regular hours of service. This would promote and revive the religious feeling of the people, for religion was still a power. Even the subversive elements of the present day had several times had to halt before it.

The Empress, Count Schwerin says, concurred in wishing the churches to be kept open.

Boys' elegant $10, $12 and $18 suits and overcoats, $5.45 and $7.45. Cheaper goods, boys' suits and overcoats, worth $2, $3 and $5, for 95c, $1.85 and $2.65. Free—Elegant musical instruments and nickel-plated pat. skates with boys' suits and overcoats $4 and above. Globe, northwest corner Franklin avenue and Seventh street.

Face and Shoulder Devoured.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 1.—The dead body of a man from which the face and one shoulder had been eaten by hogs, was discovered in a deep ravine on the farm of Henry Sampson, two miles from De Kalb. It was found to be the body of Isaac McClurg, who disappeared last Monday. He had been employed as a farm hand by Sampson. The dead man's neck had been broken, presumably by a fall from the embankment above the spot where his body was found, a distance of twenty-five feet. A pint bottle half full of whisky was found in his pocket.

PERHAPS HE MIGHT SEE
Better if he held that paper a little closer; he certainly could see, but only much better, but perfectly, if provided with a pair of properly fitted spectacles. Near-sightedness, uncorrected by glasses, imposes a severe tax on the eyes, which are needlessly weakened by the strain involved in trying to misuse them. Defects in vision grow, like weeds, without cultivation, and it's dangerous to overlook them. Whatever may be thought of a tax on income, a tax on the sight will never do, as it is apt to leave the taxers out of sight. We fit every eye perfectly.

Of what are you thinking mother dear
As you gaze in the leaping flame;
Is it sadly of one who has gone away
To play out apart life's game?
Apart from us there who loved her well,
With a man who was poor and proud,
But grieve not for her now mother dear
As if she were lost in the crowd.

Not so—our Nell is blithe as a lark
Her husband's a working man—true;
But he asks no help from the rich or grand,
For Nell—he will bravely pull through.
So you see it is not so bad, mother dear,
As if she were homeless to-night.
For of all the homes in our city dear
Than Nell's there is none more bright.

With a cozy parlor in black and gold
A dining-room, oak and green,
A bed-room of willow and curly birch
With curtains of rich moreen.
A sofa, a hassock, an easy chair,
A nook with a stand and lamp;
The softest rugs and the tiniest stove
To fight off the cold and damp!

Her dining-room set is of antique style
With dishes of Flemish blue;
Cut glass that glitters on the buffet tall
And everything jaunty and new.
You start and ask in a frightened way
How he did it—this poor young man.
Ah, mother, with credit—to pay each week
On McNichols' installment plan.

And no man is poor who can do this. It is easy, honorable and private. Your home rests with

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

BY THREE MEN

Hold-Up on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham.

The Express Car Was Completely Looted of Its Contents.

ROBBERY EFFECTED A FEW MILES EAST OF NEW ALBANY, MISS.

The Bandits Boarded the Tender at New Albany and When a Few Miles Out Compelled the Engineer to Stop the Train—The Conductor Fired At Several Times—Amount of Booty Not Known—Express Officials Reticent.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 1.—Passenger train No. 3 of the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham Railroad was held up at 1 o'clock this morning a few miles east of New Albany, Miss., by three masked men, and the express car was completely looted of its contents.

Conductor W. B. Leonard, who was in charge of the train, got into Birmingham at 6 o'clock this morning and gave the following facts to the POST-DISPATCH correspondent:

"My train pulled out of New Albany just about 1 o'clock this morning. Shortly after getting under full headway the train began to slack up and was soon at a standstill. As I afterwards discovered, three masked men had boarded the tender of the engine at New Albany and, covering Engineer Campbell and Fireman Alexander with pistols, had compelled them to stop at a designated point in the woods, a few miles east of New Albany.

"When the train was stopped I was in the baggage-car. I went to the side door and opened it and was greeted with several pistol shots from one of the robbers. I shoved the door to, but, turning around, I saw two of the robbers already in the baggage-car with pistols covering me.

The engineer and fireman were made to dismount and an unsuccessful attempt was made to uncouple the engine. Express Messenger Jeanette's car was forced open, the robbers covering me with pistols all the time, and we were forced to give up the contents of the safe. Putting these in a bag, the robbers backed off into the woods, with their pistols still pointed at us, and disappeared in the darkness. We did not see their faces at any time."

Officials of the Southern Express Co. give it out that only a lot of cheap jewelry and vouchers constitute the robbers' booty. It is suspected, however, that the express company is reticent on this subject for their own reasons.

The general belief is that the robbers were amateurs, although they were successful. There is not the slightest clew to their identity.

Indicted for Permitting Gambling.

GALESBURG, Ill., Nov. 1.—C. W. Williams, the horseman, Secretary of the Galesburg District Fair Association, has been indicted by the Grand-Jury for permitting a wheel of fortune to run at the race track during the race meeting. The evidence showed that Williams received a large sum for the privilege, and the only objection to indicting him was that the fine seemed so ridiculously small compared with what he was paid.

Nearly all the saloon-keepers in town were indicted for permitting gambling in the rooms under their control, and the proprietors of the Union Hotel were indicted for allowing pool-selling in their building.

Patrolman Shot to Death.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 1.—Officer George Krum of the Canalport Avenue Police Station was shot and killed at 1:30 o'clock this morning at 161 West Twentieth street, a place which has long borne a hard name, where he had gone to stop a row between inmates of the house. The officer, hearing a disturbance in the house as he passed, entered and ordered the revelers to be quiet. He was answered by a pistol shot and returned the fire, badly wounding Thomas Burns. The latter continued to fire at the officer, who fell dead, his body pierced by three bullets. Burns was removed to the hospital and the balance of the inmates are under arrest and locked up.

Social Leader and Defaulter.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 1.—It was announced last night that Charles Wilkinson, the recognized social leader, Sunday-school Superintendent and President of the Young Men's Christian Association, was a defaulter. He has been employed for five years as assistant cashier of the First National Bank, having entered the bank upon leaving college. A week ago he resigned, ostensibly to take a better position in Cincinnati, and a warrant was issued for his arrest charging him with stealing $10,000.

He was to have been married to a daughter of the cashier after the holidays. His friends are trying to make up the deficit and keep him out of prison, but are not meeting with much success. There is no explanation offered as to the disposition he made of the funds. He did not drink to excess and never was known to gamble.

The Lynching of Martin.

PRINCETON, Ky., Nov. 1.—Eddie Martin, said to be a member of the Goode-Rich gang of horse and cattle thieves and barn-burners, was lynched by a mob in Crittenden County early Tuesday morning. About midnight a dozen or so men awoke Martin and asked him to help extinguish a fire that they said was raging in the neighborhood. When he came to the door he was seized by the gang, who told him they had come to hang him, added if he would turn State's evidence on Bill Goode, they would spare him.

"If these are the only terms, gentlemen," said he, "let the hanging proceed. Bill Goode has been my friend, and I will shield him."

He was then immediately strung up to a tree and his body left hanging.

Martin belongs to a good family in Caldwell County, but has led a wild life.

Held Up and Shot.

MASON CITY, Io., Nov. 1.—Dr. J. B. Charlton, a prominent physician of Clear Lake, was held up and wounded last night by two robbers. He was driving in from the country when two men in ambush grabbed his horses, one drawing his revolver and demanding his money. The doctor struck him over the head with the but of his whip, when the robber fired his weapon through the buggy top to frighten him. The doctor still continued the fight and the robber fired a second shot, striking the doctor over the heart. A pocket medicine case stopped the force of the ball, and it was found just beneath the ribs. The robbers fled. Officers are in pursuit.

Through the Heart.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 1.—Robert Woodard was shot through the heart and killed instantly at a church festival over in Robertson County, twenty miles from here, by Hugh Cummings. The murder was the result of a trivial matter. Cummings is in jail and claims self-defense, stating that Woodard was advancing on him in a threatening manner with a rock.

Crime in Brief.

The State's Attorney has announced that the jury in the trial of Rice Jayroe, the alleged white-capper, which has been going on at Helena, Ark., since Monday, might bring in a verdict of acquittal for the defendant.

WHY CAN'T I EAT?

There Is a Good Reason for This.

Would You Like to Be Able to Eat a Hearty Meal Once More?

You Can Easily Have a Good Appetite and Eat What You Want.

Thousands of people have no desire for food and can't eat anything without distress. They have coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, bad breath, gas in the stomach, distress, bloating, constipation, palpitation and dull-feeling head.

Some or all of these are always present. Torpid liver, biliousness, heartburn, dizziness and faintness often go with them. These symptoms mean that the stomach, and generally the liver and bowels, are out of order.

You can get well and have a splendid appetite and perfect digestion. Read the experience of George Vathe, Esq., of Whitestone, Long Island, N. Y.:

"I had been troubled a long time," he says, "with bad stomach. I had no appetite and could not eat any food at all. The little I did eat distressed me terribly.

"I had gas in the stomach, palpitation, bad breath and coated tongue, and suffered terribly all the time. I also had twitching in my limbs, and could not rest at night. I had such bad spells I thought I should have to give up work.

MR. GEORGE VATHE.

"My blood was in a very bad condition, and aggravated the other troubles. I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and commenced using it. I soon began to feel better, and steadily improved under its use.

"It was not long before I was entirely cured of all my complaints. I could eat anything, and had no distress from it. The twitching left me completely. I was made as well as ever I was by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is a wonderful medicine, and I advise everybody to use it."

There is no other medicine in the world which so surely and quickly cures stomach, liver and bowel troubles, as well as nerve and blood diseases, as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It gives health and strength.

Take it now, sufferer, and you will get well. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is the discovery of that celebrated and most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th street, New York. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Henry J. Decker of Mascoutah, Ill., out of $230 in cash and livery and hotel bills. The swindler represented himself to be a St. Louis business man.

Rev. J. R. Ramsey, a Presbyterian minister and school teacher, has been arrested near Fulton, Mo., charged with burning a house owned by William Baker.

Fiends entered the stables of the American Brewing Co. at St. Joseph, Mo., and mutilated two valuable horses with knives to such a terrible extent that it is doubtful if they will ever be fit to use again.

At the preliminary trial of John Masker at Boonville, Mo., who is charged with killing a negro named James Hedge, the defendant was held in the sum of $2,000 bail and his trial set for Nov. 12.

During an altercation between Joseph Walton and Thomas N. Appleby at Springfield, Mo., which resulted in the men firing several shots at each other, Ray Appleby, the 15-year-old son of one of the men, who was in a buggy close by, picked up a shotgun and shot Walton in the forehead, inflicting wounds that are said to be fatal.

South American Earthquakes.

BUENOS AYRES, Nov. 1.—Reports of the widespread effects of the recent earthquake are confirmed. The misery caused in the provinces of San Juan and Rio Janeiro is very great, and especially in the latter, where the people are poor. Slight shocks are still felt from time to time there, which serve to keep up the feeling of alarm.

Various Accidents.

Horace Clark, 7 years old, missing from Peoria since Saturday, was found drowned in the Illinois River.

A well-dressed stranger, 25 years old, was mangled by the cars at Chester, Ark. Foul play is feared.

Gottlieb Frach, whose relatives are in Pettis, Cole and Morgan Counties, Missouri, was devoured by wild beasts in California where he had been mining for twenty-five years. He was very rich.

Men's overcoats latest and nobbiest styles, $7.45 and $9.85. Cheaper grades, good serviceable men's suits and overcoats, $1.95, $3.85 and $5.45.

Advices From Valparaiso.

VALPARAISO, Nov. 1.—The Anglo-Chilian Tribunal has ratified the proceedings of the recent Italo-Chilian Commission.

Congress in passing the budget for 1895 did not vote a subsidy to the South Steamship Co., and it is reported that a German company has offered to buy the former company's fleet.

It is rumored that the Archbishop of Santiago will be made a Cardinal. If so he will be the first in South America.

Foreign Notes.

The force now at work on the Culebra branch of the Panama Canal will soon be increased to 1,000 men.

The Parthenon at Athens is in a dangerous condition, as a result of the earthquake last spring.

Guatemala is alarmed over the report that Mexico will blockade her Pacific Coast ports.

UNDER ADVISEMENT.

Trial of the Reduction Works Nuisance Case Finished.

The testimony in the injunction-nuisance case of South St. Louis citizens against the St. Louis Sanitary Co., has been concluded, and the case taken under advisement by Judge Dillon. Considerable rebutting evidence was introduced to controvert the statements of Prof. Wheeler and Prof. Judson that the bad odors were caused by the sewers and other unsanitary conditions in the neighborhood of the reduction works and not by the works.

FAILED TO PROSECUTE.

Stenographer Watkins' Suit Against Congressman O'Neill Dismissed.

The case of George N. Watkins, the stenographer, vs. ex-Congressman John O'Neill was dismissed for want of prosecution in Judge Dillon's court. Mr. O'Neill states that there was really due Watkins $360 for transcribing certain evidence taken in his contest against Joy, but that Watkins disappeared without completing the record, and he has not seen him since. Later his affidavit turned up in the hands of Mr. Joy, attacking the authenticity of the evidence.

MEINECKE'S DIVORCE.

Seeks a Separation After Thirty-four Years of Married Life.

William Meinecke seeks to obtain a divorce from his wife, Wilhelmine, in a proceeding begun in the Circuit Court. He alleges that she has made his life miserable by continual abuse and scolding; with accusing him of infidelity in the presence of their children, and when he was sick she refused to nurse him or prepare his food. He married her in September, 1860, and lived with her until Oct. 12 last. Their oldest child is 31 years of age and the youngest 15.

On an Agreement.

Sigmund E. Freund has sued Frederick Mersman in the Circuit Court to recover $600. The plaintiff owns some improved real estate on Mississippi avenue, near Lafayette avenue, and the McCormick-Kilgen-Rule Real Estate Co. owned a dwelling-house on the northeast corner of Lafayette and Mississippi avenues, which they threatened to convert into a business house—stores and shops. It is alleged that Mr. Freund and Mr. Mersman, believing that the erection of stores at the said corner would depreciate their respective properties in the neighborhood, agreed that if the former would purchase the property that the latter would contribute $600 toward the purchase price. It is charged that Mr. Mersman failed to pay over the money, although the plaintiff made the purchase.

Agreed to Find a Tenant.

The Bergfeld-Parker-Barlow Real Estate Co. has called upon Wm. H. Stevenson in a suit begun in the Circuit Court, to pay it $500. The Real Estate Co. alleges that on Sept. 12 last the defendant, being the owner of some property on Locust street, agreed to pay it $500 if it would find a tenant who would lease the property for ten years at $8,000 per year. It is claimed that a suitable tenant was found in C. W. Whitney, Jr., but that the defendant declined to execute the lease or to pay over the $500.

Alleges Indignities.

Mary E. Schonfeldt alleges, in a petition for divorce from Oscar M. Schonfeldt filed in the Circuit Court, that he called her vile names, subjected her to personal abuse, struck her in the face, tried to choke her, and failed to support her. They were married April 7, 1887, and lived together till Sept. 27 last. The defendant is supposed to be at Reedsburg, Wis.

Court Notes.

Peter White, the plasterer, is the latest individual to file a mechanic's lien against the new Union Station. He was a subcontractor under Adams & Chandler, and puts in a claim for $15,521.26.

The St. Louis Brewing Association began a suit in the Circuit Court against Charles Schoerer to recover $3,407, balance alleged to be due on a promissory note executed Sept. 16, 1892, and payable one day after date.

THIEVES CONFESS.

Cattle and Hog Thieves Willing to Be Punished—Jerseyville News.

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., Nov. 1.—Abner Reed and five of the cattle and hog thieves have confessed their crimes and petitioned Judge Herdman for a special term of the Circuit Court to send them up for the statutory limit. Davidson Reed, the chief of the gang, holds out, but promises to make a statement in a few days.

Maj. Orville A. Snedeker, minority nominee for Representative on the Republican ticket in the Forty-seventh District, is in Madison County this week. Mr. Snedeker's election is doubtful, because the Madison Republicans will cast 1½ votes for their nominees, leaving Jersey's candidate off the ticket.

Hon. Thomas F. Fevus and Senator Lumaghi speak at Edwardsville to-night. Democrats in the Forty-seventh District are confident of electing Lumaghi and McDonald.

Hon. Levi Davis of Alton was here yesterday to secure evidence to support an affidavit for an injunction against the present Board of Managers of the Piasa Bluffs Assembly. Gross and illegal mismanagement is said to be the ground of the application.

Bunker Hill has six ministers whose ages range from 21 to 25 years.

Hon. Thomos F. Fevus, Democratic candidate for Representative in the Forty-seventh District and prominent candidate for Speaker of the next House, speaks at Upper Alton to-morrow night, Elsah Saturday night and Fieldon Monday night.

Maj. John A. Shephard and wife and Mrs. Willis Roberts are visiting Miss Hattie Shephard at St. Louis.

The pumping station of the Chicago & Alton Railroad at Godfrey was destroyed by fire this morning.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

There will be a rousing Democratic mass-meeting at St. Boniface Hall, at 8 p. m. M. J. Batchford, R. H. Kern and several of the candidates will speak.

The plant of the Walker Manufacturing Co., on the Iron Mountain tracks, between Kansas and Iron streets, has been enlarged and improved and the firm name changed to the Carondelet Basket and Box Co.

Grocer John Yackery has returned from a successful quail hunt.

Hog Cholera in Illinois.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 1.—Hog cholera is raging around Fairmount, and more than $10,000 has been lost by farmers of Vance Township. The contagion came from Iowa by shipment.

A Matter of Dollars and Cents.

The Globe, northwest corner of Franklin avenue and Seventh street, are selling men's $2 Fedora and Derby Hats 95c; men's latest $3 and $3.50 Derbys and Fedoras, all colors, $2; Boys' 50c, 75c and $1 Stanley Caps and Turbans, 25c and 45c.

TEAM RAN AWAY.

Farmer Goodman and His Son Badly Injured at Stockton.

STOCKTON, Mo., Nov. 1.—A team belonging to George Goodman ran off this morning, throwing him and his son out of the wagon. Goodman's jaw and his son's leg were broken and they were otherwise seriously injured.

The Sanctified Band.

ONANCOCK, Va., Nov. 1.—Five of the leaders of the Sanctified Band, on Chincoteague Island, have been indicted for conspiracy in separating wives from their husbands and for being a public nuisance. Their trial will begin on Friday and will probably last for a week, as there are nearly 100 witnesses to be examined.

CRISPI'S PLANS.

Preparations Making, It Is Said, for a Movement on Tripoli.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The Gaulois prints a story with reservations alleging that Signor Crispi, having become so burdened with political and financial troubles, is preparing to make a desperate coup, the occasion being favorable, owing to the general feeling of unrest in regard to Madagascar, Morocco, China, and the condition of the Czar.

In pursuance of this policy, according to the Gaulois, the Premier has made arrangements whereby England will furnish facilities to Italy to transport arms, coal, provisions, etc., in order to make a descent upon Tripoli, the expedition to start simultaneously from Syracuse and Taranto.

This Matter of Darning

doesn't amount to much, with the women who use Pearline. Most of it has to be done because you persist in rubbing things over the washboard so. You have to, to get them even passably clean, if you wash with soap in the old way. Use Pearline and you'll save the darning. You haven't rubbed the things to pieces, and you won't have to mend them. And another kind of darning won't suggest itself, either, for you haven't tired yourself out to the cross point with the hardest of women's work.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 411 JAMES PYLE, New York.

LEGAL.

STATE OF MISSOURI, city of St. Louis, ss.—In the Circuit Court, city of St. Louis, October term, 1894. Thursday, Oct. 11, 1894; Lulu H. Belt vs. (No. 19, December term, 1894) George W. Belt.

It appearing from the petition herein duly verified by affidavit, that defendant has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, on motion of plaintiff by attorney, it is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between said parties, on the ground that said defendant wholly disregarding his duties as the husband of plaintiff has wholly without the consent and against the wishes of plaintiff and without reasonable cause, absented himself from her for the space of more than one year, to-wit: from on or about February 22d, 1891, and so continues to so absent himself; and unless he appears at the term of this court to be begun and held at the City of St. Louis, on the first Monday of December next, and on or before the third day thereof, answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered, that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the City of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis, this 16th day of October, 1894.

CLAP TRAP.

What Conde Pallen Says of Rev. Dr. McGlynn's Criticism.

Holds That the Church Has Disapproved of Single Tax.

CLAIMS THAT THE PRIEST HAS NOT BEEN COMPLETELY REHABILITATED.

If He Had Been, the Editor Says, Dr. McGlynn Would Have Been Restored to His Former Office as Rector of St. Stephen's Church — Correspondence Between Henry George and the Pope on Single Tax.

Mr. Conde Pallen, editor of the Church Progress, maintains that the single tax doctrine stands condemned by the Roman Catholic Church, in spite of Rev. Dr. McGlynn's criticism of him for taking this position. Rev. Dr. McGlynn said in Wednesday's POST-DISPATCH that Mr. Pallen's views of the orthodoxy of the single tax doctrine argued strange ignorance and extraordinary hardihood on the part of him and his paper. The doctor advanced in proof of his statement that he had been rehabilitated without having made a retraction, the fact that Mgr. Satolli passed upon a declaration of Dr. McGlynn's single tax theories and declared them consonant with Roman Catholic theology. Mr. Pallen replies to Fr. McGlynn in this week's issue of his paper. An editorial by Mr. Pallen says in part:

MR. PALLEN'S STAND.

"Dr. McGlynn indulged in an interview in Wednesday's POST-DISPATCH for the ostensible purpose of making it appear to Catholics in this city that the single tax theory has not been condemned by the Holy Father. This was a piece of political maneuvering for N. O. Nelson, in whose interest the doctor has been stumping the town for the past week. The doctor makes a criticism of the attitude of the Church Progress in regard to the single tax doctrine, the medium of his attempted point. The doctor declares that the single tax theory is not condemned because his suspension has been lifted; that an expression of his single tax views was submitted to a theological commission who found nothing in them contrary to faith. Some two years ago THE NEW YORK WORLD published what purported to be the written views submitted by Dr. McGlynn to Mgr. Satolli. It was a statement of vague generalities, which could be construed to mean anything or nothing. It was an ambiguity big enough to admit a theological coach and four through it. But what Dr. McGlynn failed to state in his interview was the fact that he subscribed to the encyclical 'Rerum Novarum,' in which, as we have already shown conclusively, Henry George's single Tax theory that private ownership of land is wrong was condemned; Henry George himself admitted the condemnation of his theory by the encyclical."

THE POPE'S POSITION.

Mr. Pallen contends that the church has condemned Henry George's theories on the ground that he urged the exclusive taxation of land in order that it might be confiscated, as private ownership of land is neither just nor right. Mr. Pallen states that the Pope on the other hand taught in his encyclical that private ownership of land is right, and Henry George admitted the condemnation when he wrote a letter in reply to the encyclical to convince the Pope of his errors.

In conversation, Mr. Pallen insisted that Fr. McGlynn's statement submitted to Mgr. Satolli was a retraction, and that his criticism of the Church Progress was a piece of political clap-trap.

"I have insisted," said Mr. Pallen, "that Henry George's single tax teachings are opposed to Catholic doctrine and were condemned in the encyclical 'Rerum Novarum,' and I still insist upon this, whatever Fr. McGlynn may say to the contrary notwithstanding. George's followers are dodging, and they now say he has gone too far, but they hold the essential principles of his doctrine. As for Fr. McGlynn, if he had been completely rehabilitated he would have been restored to his former office as rector of St. Stephen's, New York."

POLITICAL MOVE.

Charge About the Niedringhaus Shut Down and the Firm's Reply.

A report comes from Springfield, Mo., that the shutting down of the Niedringhaus tin plate factory is purely a political move. The statement from Springfield is to the effect that a certain firm there who had an order placed with the Niedringhaus people, wrote to the factory to know why it was not filled, and asking if there was any change in the price of tinware. In reply the niedringhouse people stated that the price of tinware had not changed nor was it likely to for the present, but that the trouble was that they had more orders than they could fill.

With a view to finding out how ex-Congressman Niedringhaus would reconcile this information to customers with that given to the public, which was to the effect that the new tariff precluded the possibility of manufacturing tin plates at a profit, and so his works had to be shut down, a reporter for the POST-DISPATCH called at the office of the St. Louis Stamping Co. The ex-Congressman was there and so was his son, Thomas.

Quoting the statement to him, the reporter asked the Congressman what he had to say to it. His son spoke up for him and said:

"We have no time to answer all this political talk."

"But you claimed that you closed down your tin plate factory because it could not be operated at a profit under the reduced tariff."

"Our tin plate factory is still shut down. That letter refers to our tinware department, where coffee-pots, tin cups and cooking and kitchen utensils, etc., are manufactured from tin plate. They are two entirely different departments. The tinware department has never been closed. Tinware prices have been reduced several times in anticipation of the effect of the tariff bill. However, I am too busy to pay any attention to this political talk. If we answer all the questions that are constantly being put to us all our time will be occupied in writing and talking to newspapers, and we will have no time to give to our private business."

Then Mr. Niedringhaus closed, and nothing could induce him to say anything further.

Judge Winters' Iron Hall Decision.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 1.—Judge Winters to-day decided that the matured certificates of members of the Iron Hall which had not been paid when the receivership was created were matters of contract fulfilled, and that they should be allowed in full, less the amounts received in sick benefits. The decision, however, did not make them perfect claims over the claims of members holding unmatured certificates and the holders of them can only receive the usual dividends upon the face value.

Pennsylvania Dividend.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—The directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad at their meeting this afternoon declared a semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent cash.

Andrew Phinney.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—Andrew Phinney, husband of Mrs. Phinney, president of the National Non-Partisan W. C. T. U., died at his residence in this city last night of heart disease.

A NEW LINE.

A Franchise for the St. Louis & Southwestern Railway

TO PASS ALL IMPORTANT POINTS IN SOUTH ST. LOUIS.

The Projectors to Present a Bill to the Municipal Assembly at the Next Meeting—South St. Louis Merchants Back of It—The Officers of the Proposed New Corporation—The Proposed Route.

The Municipal Assembly will at its next meeting be asked to grant a franchise to a new street railroad system which proposes to reach all the principal points of interest in South St. Louis and also Forest Park. The new line is to be known as the St. Louis & Southwestern Electric Line, and its projectors are Mr. George C. Fox, the planing mill man and capitalist, President; A. E. Weiss, Secretary, and J. M. Wiener, Treasurer.

A meeting of the interested parties was held at the office of Mr. Wiener, in the Wainwright Building. Details of the enterprise were agreed upon, and Mr. Frank Richey, who is attorney for Mr. Fox, will be instructed to draw up the articles of incorporation and an ordinance granting the new line a franchise. Mr. Wiener was seen at his office by a POST-DISPATCH reporter, but was too busy to enter into details of the enterprise. He said: "We have a good thing and will lose no time in applying for a franchise. When it is granted we will commence work on the road within sixty days and will push it to completion. We have selected a route where we will interfere as little as possible with the other street railways, and at the same time we will run through one of the most densely populated districts of the city, and will have more important public places on our line, such as churches, schools, convents and parks than any other line in the city. Cheltenham and all the brick, tile and fire-clay works in the southwestern part of the city will also be on the line."

THE PROPOSED ROUTE.

From another source the route of the proposed line was learned. It is to have two terminals on Broadway south of Chouteau avenue and will extend out to McCausland avenue in Lindenwood. It may not properly be called a line, but a system, as it will have to be operated in three divisions. Following is the route, starting at Broadway and Park avenue, west on Park avenue to Tenth street, south on Tenth street to Geyer avenue, west on Geyer to Menard, south on Menard to Shenandoah street, west on Shenandoah to Ohio avenue, south on Ohio to Sidney street, west on Sidney to Grand avenue, crossing Grand at an angle, it will run out Botanical avenue to Vandeventer, north on Vandeventer to Flad, west on Flad to Klemm, north on Klemm to Shaw avenue and thence west to Macklind, where the northern division terminates. At Macklind connection is made with the north and south or cross-town division, which runs from Arsenal street to Forest Park, crossing the railroad tracks on the level, Macklind being the only street in the section where this is possible.

By means of this cross-town division Cheltenham is reached. At Arsenal street the cross-town division connects with the southern division of the line which runs westward to Old Manchester road and out Old Manchester road to Columbia avenue in Clifton Heights, thence west on the Old Manchester road to Leola avenue, south to Odell street, west to Ivanhoe avenue, south to Fyler and west to McCausland avenue, its terminus. The southern division coming eastward from Arsenal street and Macklind avenue to Broadway follows the following streets: Arsenal street to Sublette avenue, south to Fyler avenue, east on Fyler to Alfred, north on Alfred avenue to Wyoming street, east on Wyoming street to Thirteenth street, north to Lynch, east to Eleventh, north to Victor, east to Menard, north to Geyer and east to Broadway.

IMPORTANT POINTS PASSED.

In following these routes, they leave the French Market, pass St. Vincent's Church School, the Orphans' Home at Tenth and Marion; South St. Louis Turner Hall, Tenth and Carroll; SS. Peter and Paul Church, Eighth and Geyer; Union Capitol Hall, Allen avenue; Carmelite Sisters' Home, Victor street; Anheuser-Busch and Obert's breweries, Concordia Turner Hall and Concordia Park, Benton Park, Picker's Cemetery, Oak Hill and Beckville, Parker Russell, Christy Fire Clay and Blackmer & Post Sewer Pipe Works, representing an aggregate investment of over $10,000,000. They also pass the city institutions, including the Female Hospital, Poor-house and Insane Asylum. The Crematory, Clifton Heights, Benton and Cheltenham are also tributary to the new line, and Shaw's Garden, Tower Grove Park, Reservoir Park, Compton Heights and Tyler Place are on the line.

The district through which the line passes is one of the most densely populated in the southern part of the city, and its projectors anticipate that it will pay. As above mentioned the line will particularly benefit the South Broadway merchants, and is being backed by them. It will not reach North St. Louis, nor even the business center, and is entirely a South Side enterprise.

Realty Notes.

Mrs. Davison is about to complete arrangements through her agent, Mr. F. L. Johnson, to improve the corner of Fifteenth and Olive streets, on which the old High School stands. The work of wrecking the old building will be commenced as soon as financial arrangements are completed, and a handsome new business structure, for which plans were prepared some time ago, will be erected.

Julius A. Henner has conveyed to Grant Crebs 100 feet of ground on the east side of Marcus avenue, between Cottage and Kennerly avenues, with improvements, for $80,000.

Stolen Hose.

A warrant was issued against James Martin charging him with stealing 50' feet of hose and attachments, valued at $29, from the Laclede Gas Co.

MR. M. HERZOG of Famous returned this morning from Chicago, where he has been attending the fire sale of the Parisian Suit Co., in the Palmer House.

Mr. Herzog was among the largest buyers at the sale, and the goods he bought were the choicest in the stock and are advertised in this issue for sale at Famous, to-morrow, Friday.

Warrant for Anderson.

F. W. Fervius of the Fervius Filter Co. and residing at 1618 Wash street, had a warrant issued against Charles Anderson charging him with obtaining $2.50 on June 30 last by means of false representations for alleged advertising purposes.

A WEDDING FEAST.

How It Was Ruthlessly Marred by Boyish Thieves.

THE CENTER DISH, A LUSCIOUS HAM, WAS STOLEN.

The Groom Stormed and the Bride Wept, While the Wedding Guests Gnashed Their Teeth—An Officer Traces the Robbers to Their Cave and Recovers the Remnants of the Ham—Landed in the Moldover.

This is the tale of a stolen ham or the ruin of the wedding supper. It tells a story of love's young dream, wakened to stern reality at the very threshold of blissful happiness; of the stern, dark deeds of bandits wild, with no pity, no romance in their cruel hearts; of a tragedy thrust into the very midst of a scene of ecstatic joy.

It is not often in this work-a-day world, in the heart of a great city, that such a drama could be enacted. It calls up memories of the days when the freebooters of old marched down from their mountain fastnesses upon sturdy burghers of the European towns; of the days when savage Indians swept out of the unknown wilderness and ravaged the homes of the helpless settlers. It reaches from the very bower of poetic love to the clammy confines of the Court of Criminal Correction; and this is the story:

The courtship of Robert O. Young and Katie Wagner, both of 726 Beaumont street, progressed to that point where the world had ceased to be a happy place of abode unless the bonds of matrimony should bind the two together, and yesterday this was done. Last night the ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock in the near-by church of St. Malachy's by the Rev. Fr. Zeigler, and after this the friends of the newly married couple repaired to the Beaumont street home to celebrate the joyous occasion.

There were to be high doings there, but fate, grim, cruel fate, had in store a bitter disappointment. The wedding supper had been prepared with the most consummate care. It consisted of a glorious ham, cooked to just the proper turn and dressed and trimmed to fittingly adorn the table. Full eighteen pounds it weighed, truly a goodly feast for those goodly people.

At last congratulations were over. The guests and the bride and the groom were hungry—prosaic as this may seem—and when the doors of the banquet room were swung wide upon there was a joyous murmur and then a cry of horror.

AND THE BRIDE WEPT.

The ham was gone.

The platter still was there, but the porcine delicacy was nowhere to be seen.

The bridegroom cried out and stormed in awful rage and the bride wept bitter tears. This ham had been their only hope. Its weight of eighteen pounds would have made them all so merry, and now the aching void beneath their respective vests and corsages was all the more accentuated.

An open window told the story of the theft. Men rushed to it. The footprints of the robbers could be seen on the soil below. The alarm was instantly given and a minion of the law put hot on the trail of the bandits. While the hungry guests departed and the young couple mourned with grief, the worthy protector of the peace thought out great plans.

THE BANDITS' CAVE.

He reminded himself of a cave near the lonely neighborhood of Jefferson avenue and Market street, and with that born detective instinct he followed the track of parsley buds and grease spots until he reached its entrance. And there—there seated around a camp-fire, feeding upon that wedding ham, were a crowd of villainous-looking cutthroats as ever disturbed a groaning table before.

Swooping down upon them he captured three of the robbers and marched them triumphantly away to the station-house with the remnants of the pig. Here the villains confessed to the awful crime. They had inhabited the cave, which was of their own making, for some time. Last night, hearing the sounds of revelry and suffering from acute sinking of the stomach, they decided on the raid. The three who were captured admitted climbing in through the window and making off with the pork. So hardened were they that they even regretted that they had not been able to stow away the entire eighteen pounds before being arrested.

This morning the discomfited bridegroom appeared in the warrant office and swore warrants out against the three young robbers, who gave the names of Michael Ryan, Whitewell Green and Memphis Jim.

And now the stern course of the law must be the final chapter to this story of a blighted honeymoon.

FOR THE INSURANCE

Wholesale Infanticide Practiced by Negroes at Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 1.—A sensation has been created in Chattanooga by the announcement from the Board of Health that several cases of child murder have been indirectly caused in this city by certain insurance companies that have agents at work among the negress insuring the lives of infants. The work of these companies is severely discouraged and legislation is recommended that will prevent them from operating in the State.

This morning a negro baby in the suburbs was reported to have been smothered to death by its mother rolling over on it during the night.

LOST HER POSITION.

Rosa Raack's Employers Suspend Her Pending Webber's Trial.

THE UNFORTUNATE YOUNG GIRL IN A VERY NERVOUS STATE.

Her Parents Fear That the Persecution to Which She Has Been Subjected May Drive Her to Commit Suicide—Failed to Return Home After Being Deprived of Her Employment.

The parents of Rosa Raack, the 17-year-old girl who preferred a charge of attempted assault against Leo Webber, last September, and then failed to put in an appearance as a witness when the case was called in the Court of Criminal Correction, are greatly worried about her and fear that the persecution to which she has been subjected for nearly two months may drive her to commit some desperate act.

The charge against Webber is that he offered to take the girl home from an entertainment in his buggy on the evening of Sept. 16, and that instead of taking her home he took her out in the neighborhood of Tower Grove Park, where he made indecent proposals, and when repulsed attempted by threats to force the girl to submit. Failing in this he set her down in the highway at 2 o'clock in the morning and left her. She was found there by a citizen and taken home. Webber was arrested a day or two later.

Since that time, it is claimed that the friends of Webber have kept up a systematic course of persecution. They have threatened, her father states, to blacken her character and to make her out a woman of the town. So frightened did she become on account of their alleged threats that when the case was called in the Criminal Court she staid away. In fact she did not go home the night before the date of the trial for fear she would be obliged to appear. She has been employed at the printing establishment of C. B. Woodward & Co. and instead of going to court remained at work. Finally, late in the evening she returned home. She is in a highly wrought up frame of mind and was nervous to the verge of hysterics. Influenced by the talk of her parents she became calmer, however, and agreed to appear in court on Nov. 11, the date to which the trial was continued. She was still greatly worried when she went to work at 7 a. m.

HER SUSPENSION.

Upon her arrival at her place of employment the forewoman told her that in view of the notoriety she had obtained she had better not work any more until after the case was settled. She went away at once and her parents have not seen her since. When a reporter for the POST-DISPATCH called at the office of C. B. Woodward & Co. to see Miss Raack he was told by young Mr. Woodward of her suspension, who said the forewoman took the action suspending her before he came down, and he supposed she had gone home.

"The whole trouble with the girl," he said, "is simply this: That man Webber, as nearly as I can learn, is a bad one. After being repulsed by the girl and arrested, he has got a lot of his friends, who have no regard for the truth, to threaten that they will swear away her character. On this account she doesn't dare go into court, although I am satisfied that Rosa is an honest, innocent girl. She wanted to drop the case, as she said she was getting too much notoriety, but told me her mother insisted on prosecuting Webber. I told her that if she knew she was innocent of any wrong-doing that she ought to appear against Webber, but she is timid and nervous and didn't want to."

HAD NOT RETURNED.

From Woodward & Co.'s the reporter went to Miss Raack's home at 3562 South Broadway. Her mother had not yet heard that she had lost her place and stated that Rosa came home last evening, but had gone to work. When told of her suspension, her mother burst into tears and said:

"My poor girl; they will drive her to do something desperate."

She then told the reporter how nervous and broken down Rosa was already, "and this," she said, "will only be another blow. The way she has been persecuted by that brute is something terrible. She has been threatened, through his friends, all sorts of things. Rosa is a good girl, as every one knows, but she has just been driven almost crazy."

DUE TO MORPHINE.

Strange Action of Mrs. Lizzie Pogue at the Four Courts.

Dr. Priest, Chief Dispensary Physician, examined the woman who rushed into the Four Courts on Wednesday night and acted in a strange manner, stating that some persons were after her to injure her. She was locked up. She told Dr. Priest that her name was Mrs. Lizzie Pogue and that she was 33 years old. She came to the city on Wednesday from Edwardsville, Ill., where her husband, a coal miner, was killed in a coal mine last week, she stated. Dr. Priest said that she also told him that she is addicted to the use of morphine and came to St. Louis to be cured of the habit. The doctor thinks that her actions on Wednesday were attributable to the effects of the drug. She seems rational now and will be sent to the City Hospital for treatment.

LOVE LED TO DEATH.

A Story of Misplaced Affection, a Heartless Man and Suicide.

LACLEDE, Mo., Nov. 1.—Miss Mary Watson of this city suicided night before last by taking carbolic acid, dying almost instantly. She was the victim of misplaced affection, her sweetheart marrying his choice while Miss Watson was a corpse. The man's name is Henry Durocher. He is a barber. It is said that on the night she took the poison Miss Watson called at Durocher's shop. They held a brief consultation, the nature of which is unknown. Miss Watson, at its conclusion, stepped outside and swallowed the fatal dose.

Chickens With Their Heads Off.

John Maurer, 53 years old, was arrested by Officer Michael Collins of the Mounted District about 6 a. m., on Clara and Von Versen avenues, on suspicion of having stolen a basket containing eleven chickens with their heads wrung off. He claimed to have found the basket and contents on the road, between here and St. Charles, Mo., but the fowls were still warm, and it is thought they were stolen from some farmer near the scene of the arrest. Maurer hails from St. Paul, Minn.

Pasadena's Mountain Railway.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Prof. C. C. Lowe, builder of Pasadena's Mountain Railway, has returned from Chicago, where he closed the deal whereby it is made certain that the mountain railway will be extended from Echo Mountain, its present terminus, to the highest summit of Mount Lowe. The extension will be an electric road using trolley systems. It will be seven miles in length. The track will wind around the sides of the great peak which bears Prof. Lowe's name, giving a clear and unobstructed view of some of the grandest scenes in the American continent. The construction of the extension will be pushed forward as fast as possible.

Railroad Notes.

The Vandalia line has made arrangements, effective Nov. 1, with the Terminal Railroad Association for the acceptance of thirteen miles from their commercial 1,000-mile tickets for passage over the St. Louis bridge. This also applies for similar tickets of other companies' issue which are good for passage over the Vandalia Line. Commercial men and others who travel on mileage tickets will be glad to learn of this move.

Col. Snyder of the Big Four received a handsome model of the steamship Rappahannock, one of the Chesapeake & Ohio Steamship Co.'s fleet, which plies between Newport News, Liverpool and London. The model is about 10 feet long and shows every detail of the construction of the ocean greyhound.

Ex-Gov. Evans filed a counter petition in the foreclosure proceedings of the American Loan and Trust Co. of Massachusetts against the Denver & Gulf Railroad, now being heard in the United States District Court at Denver. Gov. Evans alleges that the bonds held by the trust company are fraudulent. Attorney Hyde, representing the trust company, asked to have Frank Trumbull, the present receiver, and E. Ellery Anderson appointed receiver under the foreclosure proceedings. The court did not believe in a multiplicity of receivers and so appointed Mr. Trumbull to act alone.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Wm. K. Vanderbilt, C. M. Depew, J. P. Morgan and M. E. Ingalls were elected directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad (Big Four) at the stockholders' annual meeting held in Cincinnati.

Judge Foster of the United States District Court of Topeka, Kan., will render a decision in the Atchison election case Monday.

Sawed in Two.

RED BUD, Ill., Nov. 1.—Mr. John Stump, a young man 20 years of age, residing near Glasgow, Ill., was instantly killed yesterday by being cut in two at Philip Dorr's sawmill at Sycamore Landing. Young Stump had been warned several times of his danger, but he would not listen to anyone. He was a new employe.

Among the little ones were the Misses Alma Robb, Lettie Scannell, Marie Griffin, Eleanore Mathe, Vera Hunter and Lily Richmond, and Masters James Fryar, Herman Jungke, Delos Reynolds, C. Griffin, George Mathe and Fred Anderson.

JOYCE—TEMM.

An Interesting Wedding Celebrated at St. Theresa's Catholic Church.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Theresa's Catholic Church at 5 o'clock p. m., Fr. Connelly officiating. The bride was Miss Emily T. Temm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Temm of 1921 North Grand avenue, and the bridegroom Mr. Michael D. Joyce. The bride wore a robe of cream-tinted satin, the skirt en traine, the bodice cut high, with crushed collar of satin ornamented with pearl trimming and finished at the back with a rosette. The bodice was round-waisted and finished about the edge with bands of the pearl passementerie, full sleeves to the elbow, edged with pearl trimming. The bride wore a tulle veil fastened with pearl pins, which enveloped the whole toilet, and she carried a bouquet of lillies of of the valley, and nephitos roses.

Miss Mamie Temm, a sister of the bride, was her maid of honor, and wore a gown of heavy white corded silk, the funnel-shaped skirt cut dancing length, the bodice cut round in the neck and finished with bands of soft white swan's down, the puffed Marguerite sleeves finished about the lower edge with a band of the same, showing prettily against the soft white flesh. She carried a bunch of La France roses tied with white satin ribbon, which constituted the only dash of color in an otherwise pure white wedding.

The bride entered the church with her father, her maid of honor leading. She met the groom at the altar with his best man. A small reception followed at the residence of the bride lasting from 4 to 8 o'clock. The house was prettily decorated with evergreens and vases filled with chrysanthemums.

The young couple will live in East St. Louis, where the groom has prepared a home for his bride at 814 Broadway avenue, where they will be glad to see their friends after Nov. 15.

RICH—FILLMORE.

Marriage of the Grand-Niece of President Fillmore.

WHITE HAVEN, Pa., Nov. 1.—The wedding of Miss Harriette Fillmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Millard Fillmore of this place, and Seaton Heather Rich of New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y., took place here this afternoon. The bride is the niece of J. A. Fillmore, a wealthy railroad man of California, and grand niece of President Fillmore. The bride was given away by her grandfather, Mr. L. Fillmore of San Francisco.

Bell—Ferguson.

FAYETTE, Mo., Nov. 1.—A brilliant social event in Fayette was the marriage last night of Mr. Marvin Payne Bell and Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferguson at the Christian Church, Elder S. G. Clay officiating. The groom is one of Fayette's most prominent young business men, chairman of the County Democratic Central Committee and member of the City Council. The bride is the only daughter of J. C. Ferguson, a wealthy capitalist. Oates of St. Louis furnished the wedding feast.

Thompson—Grace.

CHENOA, Ill., Nov. 1.—A brilliant wedding came off at 8 o'clock last evening at the residence of Dr. C. S. Elder. The contracting parties were his youngest daughter, Grace, and Mr. H. C. Thompson, grain merchant, of Brainerd. Rev. Wm. Stone of Normal performed the marriage ceremony. The decorations were chrysanthemums and roses. The bride was dressed in white silk with a bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor, Miss Edith Elder of Jacksonville, was gowned in white mull and valencia lace. Miss Mamie Dillon played on the harp Lohengrin's Wedding March. The presents were numerous.

Welder—Tuxhorn.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Nov. 1.—Capt. Henry H. Welder of the Madison Mercantile Co. of this city and Miss Martha Tuxhorn were married at 7:30 last evening at the home of the bride's mother on Main street, Rev. R. Johns of Upper Alton officiating. The wedding was a quiet home affair, about fifty guests being present, including relatives on both sides.

STEVENS IS COMING.

Manager Le Clare Says He Will Clear Up the Mystery of the New Bank.

Oliver Le Clare, who styles himself the manager for the banking firm recently started in the city under the firm name of J. Otis Stevens & Co., whose headquarters are in the offices formerly used by the Boatmen's Saving Institution at the corner of Second and Pine streets, positively refuses to make any detailed statement in regard to the affairs of the firm in order to clear up the mystery with which it appears to be conducted.

Mr. Le Clare positively denies that the bank has any connection with the wholesale jewelry firm of John C. Ashton & Co, or that this firm has any right whatever to use the name of the firm as reference. Mr. Le Clare stated that he had received a telegram from Mr. Stevens during the morning saying that he would arrive in St. Louis in the evening or next morning. Mr. LeClare said that then Mr. Stevens would make a complete statement showing up the firm's methods and responsibility in its true light. He admitted that appearances at present were very much against the bank, that he could not help it as he was under instructions from his employer, Mr. Stevens, to impart no information regarding the workings or responsibility of the bank, as Mr. Stevens said he would attend to all that on his arrival. Mrs. Le Claire said, however, that it was not the intention of the bank to do any deposit business until after the first of the year, but that they would confine their attention until then in loaning money on commercial paper, etc. Mr. Le Claire said that previous to his coming to St. Louis he had been engaged in the brokerage business in New York, with offices in the Potter Building and afterwards in the World Building. He said that he met Ashton in the Planters' Hotel about two weeks ago and told him that he was going to move from Fourth street to their present location. Ashton said he wanted to move also and, on looking at the Fourth street store formerly occupied by the bank, he said he would rent it from the bank as the latter firm had a five years' contract on it. Mr. Le Claire also said that Ashton had spoken to him about opening an account with the bank but as yet had not done so.

Whether the jewelry firm of Ashton & Co. had any right to refer to the bank or not, it is evident that they did so, as letters have been received by wholesale jewelry firms all over the country from the firm of John C. Ashton & Co., asking for a line of goods on time and in each case the name of J. Otis Stevens & Co., bankers, was given as reference.

Ashton and a man named Willis, who is said to be his partner, are now said to be in Chicago, but Mr. LeClare says he expects them back at once to take possession of the store on Fourth street the 1st of this month, as per agreement.

WERE FIGHTING MAD.

Two Democratic Judges Who Were Maligned by Republicans.

There came very near being a fight between Deputy Coroner Rohling and two Democratic judges of election of the First Ward named John Maroney and William McDonald, about 9 a. m., and it may be that David Murphy, the Republican candidate for judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, will be called upon to explain a certain statement he is said to have made derogatory to Maroney and McDonald.

The two judges heard that Rohling accompanied by Tom Niedringhaus and David Murphy had called upon Recorder of Voters Higgins and demanded their withdrawal on account of their police records. Rohling was found by Maroney and McDonald, and he said that Col. Murphy and Mr. Niedringhaus had brought the matter before Recorder Higgins, whereupon they said they would see them. Afterward it was learned from Rohling that no charges were made against McDonald's honesty and good character, and that the protest against Maroney was due to a mistake on the part of Murphy, who confounded him with a Wm. Maroney who is under indictment for highway robbery. The statement was brought before the Republican Committee by Col. Murphy and a protest was sent to the Recorder as a result. Trouble is expected because John Maroney's character is beyond reproach, and the mistake could have been avoided by referring to the list of judges and seeing the difference in the name Maroney.

CHURCH EXTENSION

Regular Semi-Annual Meeting of the Methodist Bishops.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—All the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States who are present in this country assembled in Wesley Hall, this city, today. The meeting is the regular semi-annual session of the General Committee of Church Extension. When the meeting was called to order by Bishop Foss the following bishops were present: Bowman of St. Louis, Foster of Roxbury, Mass.; Merrill, Chicago; Andrews, New York; Warren, University Park; Cothurn, Washington; Walden, Cincinnati; Mallalieu, Buffalo; Fowler, Minneapolis; Vincent, Topeka; Fitzgerald, New Orleans; Joyce, Chattanooga; Newman, Omaha, and Goodsell, Fort Worth, Tex.

In addition to the bishops there present representatives of the General Committee from all parts of the country: Dr. T. M. Durrell, Tilton, N. H.; Rev. Dr. R. M. Freshwater, Scio, O.; Rev. J. M. Carter, Tullahoma, Tenn.; Rev. Dr. W. H. Shier, Detroit; Rev. T. L. Fleming, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Rev. Dr. H. J. Chaffee, Minneapolis; Rev. Dr. D. W. C. Huntington, Lincoln, Neb.; Rev. J. J. Bentley, Cameron, Mo.; Rev. I. B. Scott, Marshall, Tex.; Dr. J. L. Barth, St. Louis, and Rev. Dr. G. O. Wilding, Vancouver, Wash.

The sessions of the General Committee will be especially interesting from the fact that a larger number of churches than ever before are in financial difficulties and have appealed to the board for aid. Other matters of importance will come before the board. There will be two sessions to-day, to-morrow and Saturday. Sunday will be observed as Church Extension Day.

Missionary Alliance.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 1.—The American Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance met in the fifteenth annual session here this afternoon with forty delegates representing thirty-five theological seminaries throughout America. The convention lasts four days.

DAIRY COMBINATION.

A Widely-Circulated Rumor Denied by the Various Managers.

A rumor is current to the effect that a great consolidation of milk companies in St. Louis is about to be consummated. In fact, rumor goes so far as to say that the consolidation has already been effected, the object of which is to freeze out all the small milk depots and to put the sale of the great volume of milk which comes into the city over the railroads into the hands of one concern.

The details of the combination as rumored are that the Union Dairy Co. has bought or is negotiating for the purchase of the St. Louis, Metropolitan and Hopson Dairy companies and the St. Louis Creamery. The only one of the big companies which, it is said, is not to be purchased is the Grafeman. Rumor also states that Manager Charless Cabanne of the St. Louis company is to be assistant manager of the consolidated concern.

Regarding such a consolidation Manager Cabanne says that so far as his company is concerned it is erroneous. "There is, I am told," said Mr. Cabanne, "a combination of the other big companies which bring in milk over the railroads, the Grafeman included. The object of this combination, so far as I have been able to learn, is to control legislation. I know of no offer from the Union to purchase the St. Louis, but if ever the time comes when such an offer is made you can rest assured they will not want me for manager."

President Hopson of the Hopson Dairy Co. denies that there is any consolidation, complete or proposed which affects his company and also denies that he is a member of any combination.

"I have heard," he said, "that the Union was trying to buy out the St. Louis and I wouldn't be surprised if it was so. No one has bought the Hopson company out, nor has there been any proposition made to us. As for a combination, I know nothing about it."

It was impossible to see the managers of the other companies. All the milk dealers in the city have heard of the combination, but no one seems to know anything about it.

Rice—Whitford.

BOWEN, Ill., Nov. 1.—Mr. E. C. Rice and Miss Nellie Whitford, daughter of Col. Samuel Whitford, both of this city, were married last evening.

DISTURBED HIS WIFE.

Joseph Council Will "Bach" at the Work-House for a While.

Joseph Council was fined $15 by Judge Paxson for disturbing the peace of his wife, Ellen Council. After court his honor had Council sent to the Dispensary to have Dr. Priest examine into his sanity, instructing the Marshal to commit him to the Workhouse in case the Dispensary physician found him mentally sound.

Mrs. Council charged her husband with habitual idleness and brutality. She said he only gave her $18 during the last six months, and had regularly abused her and her 17-year-old son, who was her only support. She said she was mortally afraid of him when he was either drunk or sober.

LEHMANN'S ORATORY.

He Delivers the Most Forcible Speech of the Campaign.

Fred W. Lehmann delivered the most finished and masterly oration at Entertainment Hall, Wednesday night, that has been heard in St. Louis during the present campaign. It surpassed both in logic and eloquence those of McKinley, Reed, Stone, Francis and all other Republican and Democratic speeches on the great National issues of the two parties.

The meeting was under the auspices of the Young Democracy, who turned out in large numbers to greet the brilliant orator. Robert H. Kern called the meeting to order and introduced Mr. Lehmann in a brief and appropriate speech.

The latter then began his speech by calling the attention of the audience to the theme of McKinley and Reed, "Hard Times," who he said were traveling around the country and trying to be funny at the expense of the people whom they had cajoled and defrauded for the past quarter of a century.

He reviewed the legislation of the Republican party from the time it assumed the reins of government in 1861 down to 1893, and clearly showed that the "hard times" at which they were now laughing was the direct result of this legislation. The Sherman Silver bill and the McKinley tariff bill were both admitted by their authors to have been very unwise legislation and to have produced disastrous results.

He then took up the subject of the tariff and made a simple and comprehensive review of the tariff legislation of this country. He completely demolished the Republican doctrine of protection in a manner that fairly electrified his audience.

At the close of his speech Mr. Lehmann was greeted with prolonged applause and congratulated on all sides.

He will speak again at 8 p. m. at Social Turner Hall in the interest of Fred Espenscheid's candidacy for Congress in the Eleventh District.

Sam Price's Condition.

Sam. Price and Oliver Boyd, two colored boys, neither one of whom is more than 14 years of age, engaged in a quarrel Wednesday which may result in the death of Price. He is at the City Hospital suffering with congestion of the brain. According to his story told Dr. Heine Marks, he was attacked by young Boyd, who struck him with a spoke from a wagon wheel. A nail which had been driven in the end of the spoke penetrated Price's brain, and an operation was made necessary. Both of the boys live near Jefferson and Scott avenues.

NOT WORTH WHILE.

Rohling's View of Mandamus Proceedings Against Recorder Higgins.

Resort to mandamus for the reinstatement of voters whose names were stricken from the registration lists by the Board of Revision is contemplated by the Republicans. The matter has been under discussion for several days, and a petition has, it is stated, been prepared by Mr. Leo Rassieur, Republican candidate for the Probate Judgeship. At Mr. Rassieur's office it was stated that he would not be on hand until late in the day. Secretary Rohling of the City Central Committee was seen, however, and his statement was that the mandamus petition to compel the Recorder of Voters to make certain specified reinstatements might not be filed. "I saw Mr. Rassieur late last evening," said Rohling, "and that was the impression then. If the court got to work Monday probably 100 names might be put back on the lists, but that would hardly be worth while."

Political Notes.

Dr. E. A. Donelan of St. Joseph, a member of the State Legislature, is at the Lindell.

GOT LITTLE PLUNDER.

The Post-Office and Station at Shrewsbury Park Burglarized.

The Post-office at Shrewsbury Park, St. Louis County, was entered by a burglar or burglars Wednesday night. Mrs. Frederieka H. Wasen is the railroad ticket agent and also the Postmistress, and she performs the duties of both offices at the railroad station. A small pane of glass was broken so as to admit the hand and arm to the latch which fastened the window sash. The window was opened and an entrance gained. About $2 worth of postage due stamps were taken, but the other stamps and all the postal money was locked up, together with the railroad ticket stamp, and these were not disturbed. The unstamped railroad tickets were in an open drawer, but were not stolen. Mrs. Wasen saw a man come from under the station about two weeks ago, and she sent a boy to see what was beneath the house. The boy found a pick and a lantern and saw that a hole had been dug. Mrs. Wasen thinks that the hole was dug to hide plunder and that the digger was the man who robbed the post-office.

MRS. LIZZIE POGUE.

Committed to the Hospital, Supposed to Be Insane.

A woman who said her name was Lizzie Pogue and that she was from Edwardsville, Ill., was sent to the City Hospital by Chief Dispensary Physician Warren G. Priest, who decided that she was insane. Mrs. Pogue acknowledged that she had been addicted to the use of morphine for three years, and said that she came to St. Louis without the knowledge of her husband several days ago.

The unfortunate woman comes from an excellent family, but is not a near relative of a prominent family of that name that resides at Edwardsville. Mrs. Pogue will be detained at the City Hospital until the arrival of her husband, or until she convinces the authorities that she is not insane.

Post-Office Robberies.

Post-office Inspector Johnston was notified that the robbers who rifled the Marionville (Mo.) Post-office took $26. The post-office at Mount Ida, Ark., was robbed of $22. The post-office at Mozane, Mo., was burglarized and $16 in postage and a quantity of merchandise taken.

A NEW LIFE OF NAPOLEON

Magnificently Illustrated,
will be the chief feature of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE in 1885. It is written by PROFESSOR WILLIAM M. SLOANE, who has spent many years in preparation for the work. The interest in Napoleon has had recently a revival that is phenomenal in its intensity. Thus far no biography of the "man of destiny" has appeared in either English or French that is both free from rancor and attentive to the laws of historical criticism. THE CENTURY has secured it—a complete and interesting history of the life of one of the most marvelous of men. Every one will want to read this, no matter how much he may already know of Napoleon;—here is the concentration of all the lives and memoirs. In preparing it the author has had access to original sources of information, and his work has the advantage of coming after the numerous volumes of memoirs. It begins in

The November Number of
THE CENTURY
Now Ready. MAGAZINE Sold Everywhere.

Every resource of THE CENTURY has been brought to bear to enrich the narrative with pictorial illustrations not unworthy of the subject. European and American collections have been ransacked for portraits of the period, and for the most trustworthy pictures by contemporaries of the events described: To these have been added many of the greatest modern masterpieces of French art—the works of Meissonier, Detaille, Gérôme, Verner, Delaroche, Lefevre, etc. In addition, many original pictures have been made by French and American artists. The theme creates an opportunity for the most interesting and most brilliant pictorial series of a historical character yet presented in the pages of a magazine.

A New Novel by Marion Crawford,
A Romance of Italy, Illustrated by Castaigne,
"Casa Braccio," begins in the November CENTURY. It is considered by Mr. Crawford his best work—setting forth, in a striking and original manner, the tragedy of human passion.

"Washington in Lincoln's Time,"
A Series of Papers by Noah Brooks, begins also in the November CENTURY, with chapters on "The Capital as a Camp," "Conversations with Lincoln," "Some Famous Men of the Period."

"THE CATHEDRALS OF FRANCE" is the title of a valuable series of articles by Mrs. Schuyler van Rensselaer, with illustrations by Joseph Pennell, which begins in the November CENTURY, following the brilliant papers on English Cathedrals, by the same writer and artist. "THE MAKING OF THIEVES IN NEW YORK," by Jacob A. Riis, interesting REMINISCENCES OF HAWTHORNE, by his daughter, "IN THE CITY OF CANTON" (richly illustrated), complete stories by Hezekiah Butterworth, and others, are in the November CENTURY.

This number begins a new volume. The next issue of THE CENTURY—a superb Christmas number—will contain

RUDYARD KIPLING'S FIRST AMERICAN STORY,
"A WALKING DELEGATE."

If you are not already a reader of THE CENTURY, begin with the November number, now on every news-stand; price, 35 cents. Price, $4.00 a year. All dealers take subscriptions, or remittance may be made by check, draft, money-order, or express-order to the publishers,

MRS. GETTY.

She Calls on Dr. Priest to Complain of Her Husband.

Catharine Getty, the woman whose husband, John Getty, declares that she is insane, called at Chief Dispensary Physician Warren G. Priest's office this morning and showed a big cut on her cheek, which she said was inflicted by her husband. Dr. Priest did not commit her to the Insane Asylum, but notified her husband of her visit.

Officers Re-Elected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad met to-day and re-elected the present board of officers. No other business was transacted.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

James Graham Stricken With the Mysterious Work-House Disease.

Another victim of the mysterious plague which is raging at the Work-house was taken to the City Hospital and he will probably die. He is a negro named James Graham of 201 South Eighth street and his symptoms are identical with the other patients, who have been taken to the hospital from the Work-house. His body is terribly swollen and he suffers great pain. It is thought that he cannot recover.

The contract for building jetties and deepening the harbor at Sabine Pass was let to Capt. D. A. Hyatt of Beaumont. The jetties must be completed and twenty-foot feet of water obtained by March 1, 1885.

An Active Business in Flour—Millers Buying Wheat—Corn Dull—Oats Firm—Items of Interest.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1, 1894.

A Sherman (Tex.) grain house reports that after a close and careful investigation they find that 1,942,000 bu oats are held by dealers in that State and the Indian Territory, and allowing 1,000,000 bu in farmers' hands, a total of 2,942,000 bu. There is sold for future delivery to Government forts 250,000 bu, leaving available about 1,692,000 bu, and of this one house holds 1,200,000 bu. This they consider very light supplies. An increased acreage is probable to oats in Texas next season, owing to the low prices for wheat and cotton.

Cincinnati Price Current: But little complaint concerning growing wheat. It continues backward in growth in some regions. Farmers' deliveries of wheat continue limited, they preferring to hold or feed to stock, which practice is fully maintained. Considerable progress in securing corn, some being cribbed. Tenor of returns about as previously, as to yield and condition.

The flour output last week of Minneapolis and the Superior-Duluth mills was 337,992 bbls, against 312,448 the week before, and 294,808 for corresponding week last year. Business is reported very dull, especially foreign trade.

Ike Motter of St. Joe, who was on the floor to-day, stated that section would have little if any corn to ship this way, as it would be required at home for feeding purpose.

Italy's wheat crop, according to the final official report, is 122,957,000 bu, which will necessitate imports this season of about 25,000,000 bu.

The threshing is not all done in some of the principal wheat districts of Manitoba. Farmers' deliveries are fairly large and the movement eastward heavy.

In Paris and Antwerp it was a holiday to-day, as it was All Saints' Day, and Paris will be closed to-morrow.

Although it was a holiday in Antwerp to-day, New York wired that market accepted offers of wheat made last night and bid for more.

After holding off and dickering with the elevator people without being able to come together on terms, a local miller broke the ice to-day by the purchase of a round lot cash wheat. The amount was 40,000 bu of No 2 red and was in one of the elevator houses this side. This is the first notable sale of wheat to millers from the stock in store this season.

If clearances from the Pacific Coast and Atlantic Coast outports average as large as for several weeks, the week's exports of flour and wheat from both coasts will be in the neighborhood of 3,250,000 bu.

The stock of wheat in St. Louis mills and private warehouses is 1,058,000 bu, against 1,079,000 on Oct. 1 and 1,170,500 on Nov. 1, 1893.

ON 'CHANGE.

Grain.

Wheat—There was considerable strength underlying the market all the session, though the feeling was more or less unsettled and traces of nervousness perceptible. Not much was for sale and decidedly more confidence exhibited on the buying side, whenever the market was on the upward trend. The opening was at lowest point and the close about the top, with Dec ⅛c and May ⅛@¼c above yesterday. Principal strength was obtained from abroad this morning. Public cables were firm, though reporting quiet markets, the Liverpool stock showed over 1,000,000 bu decrease in wheat and flour during Oct. and private advices denoted that European markets were still after supplies. New York reported easier cables from London and Liverpool after the opening on this side and this rendered domestic markets nervous and uncertain for a time. The announcement of the Russian Czar's death started an upward move very shortly, being aided and abetted by large clearances from New York. The total clearances were 75,000 pkgs flour, 145,000 bu wheat from four ports. Winter wheat receipts were still small and in the Northwest 683 cars arrived, against 1,032 one year ago. The latest public cables rather disturbed the bulls, as Liverpool was reported ¼d lower and Berlin off ¼. This evidence of weakness abroad caused domestic markets to ease off, but export sales of 20 loads at the seaboard and a desire shown by shorts to cover rallied prices late and the close was about the top.

FUTURES—Dec sold at 49⅛c at opening, up to 49½c at close. May at 54¼c to 54⅝c at close.

SPOT GRADES—At a comparatively early hour a local miller bought 40,000 bu No 2 red from the United Elevator Co., paying some discount from Dec price, but on Call the only bidders were still the carriers, who bid ⅛c higher. No 2 red was salable at 48¾c in United, 48⅝c in Terminal and Farmers', 48½c East Side. No 2 hard winter at 48½c in any elevator. No 3 red at 47½c and No 4 winter at 46½c in United and Terminal.

After Call No 2 red sold this side at 48⅝c, but sellers generally would not accept that price.

SAMPLES—Received, 2,617 sks, 13 cars local. No advance was obtainable, but at 49½c all the offerings of choice were readily absorbed by millers. There was not much for sale.

Corn—This market showed firmness, though it was very quiet, so slack was speculation. Weather conditions were more favorable in the West, but a change to rains was probable, and receipts were light, anyway—at three Western markets 166,000 bu. Foreign markets were not so light as they have been, both London and Liverpool being quiet, and the latter ¼d lower, and, to the surprise of the trade, the stock at the latter point was somewhat larger than a month ago. The fluctuations in corn closely followed wheat, and at close the market was fair, with Dec ⅛c and May ⅛@¼c above yesterday, Liverpool reported closing ¼d lower.

FUTURES—Dec sold at 47⅛c to 47⅝c. May at 47⅝c up to 47⅞@⅛c, at latter bid at close.

SPOT GRADES—Higher for No 2, which could not be bought on call below 48⅛c (⅛c advance), and that paid for a few cars by local buyers; 48⅛c bid for United and Farmers'. No 2 white offered in C at 48½c, bid 48c for T. No 3 white sold regular at 45c, more offered at that and only 44c bid, though 46c bid Terminal. No 3 not offered and 44c bid regular, 44½c E side, 45c for Terminal.

After call the market was weaker, with sales in Terminal at 48⅛c for No 2 and 47½c for No 2 white.

Oats—The future market was stronger and advanced ⅛c, but no trading until late, when May sold at 32⅛c to 32⅝c, so scarce were sellers.

SPOT GRADES—No 2 on call offered in A at 29¼c, bid 28½c for regular, 29¼c for Terminal. No 3 not offered; bid 27½c E side, 28c for Terminal.

After call No 2 sold in A at 29c and in T at 29½c.

SAMPLES—Received, 218 sks, 20 cars local. Firm at top prices of yesterday. About all the current offerings—they were small—were cleaned up. The demand was entirely local and moderate, but enough to get away with what was on sale. In special bin No 2 sold at 29½c and No 2 white at 32c. On track—No 2 at 30c, both this and E side; fancy No 2 Northern at 31½c this side, No 3 white at 31½c and No 2 white at 32½c this side.

Rye—None offered on call, where 47c bid for No 2 regular, 48c E side, but it was fully worth 52c.

Barley—Steady but quiet. Sales: 2 cars thin Iowa at 52c, 2 cars Minnesota at 55c.

Hay.

Received, 220 tons; shipped, 66 tons. The market was quiet, but quotably unchanged. Local buyers were still looking for selections and readily paid firm prices therefor in both timothy and prairie. The supply of low grade prairie was still over large and these hard to move, but in timothy there were less of these descriptions offering. Clover has lost the strength and demand it had some time ago, owing to larger offerings, and the best did not command over $11.50.

Sales, track and ware-house, this side: Prairie—Part car damaged at $4, part car do at $4.10, part car packing at $6, 1 choice at $8.50, 1 strictly choice to fancy at $9.50, 1 fancy at $10. Clover—2 cars at $11. Timothy—1 car clover mixed at $9, 1 do at $10, 1 slightly do at $10.50, 3 prime at $9, 1 strictly do at $9.50, 8 choice at $10, 2 strictly do (1 small bales), at $10.50, 4 fancy at $11, 2 strictly do (1 part large bales) at $11.50, 1 extra do (quarter bales) at $12.

East Side—Clover, 2 cars at $10.50, 1 at $11.50. Timothy—1 car choice at $10, 2 cars fancy at $11, 2 cars strictly fancy at $11.50.

Straw—East Side—1 car wheat at $4, part car rye at $5.50.

Flour and Feed.

Flour—The improved demand noted yesterday was confirmed to-day by sales reported for export of over 15,000 sks, of which 9,000 to Dublin, and negotiations pending for other large lots. A domestic order for 5,000 bbls also filed.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Patents | $2 40@2 50 | Rye flour | $3 00 |
| Extra fancy | 2 15@2 25 | Cornmeal | 2 30@2 35 |

Bran—Eastern buyers out at over 60c E track and on that basis purchase at outside points, but spot not obtainable below 61c. At mills retailing at 63@65c.

Provisions.

Pork—Standard mess selling at $12.50; on orders, $13.

Lard—Prime steam at 6⅝c and choice at 6.85½c.

Bacon—Packed shoulders, 6⅝c; longs, 7⅛c; c'ribs, 7⅛c; shorts, 7⅜c. On orders—Longs and c'ribs, 7⅝c; shorts, 7⅝c.

Dry Salt Meats—Shipping age f o b on cash orders—Loose shoulders, 5⅝c; longs, 6⅛c; ribs, 6⅛c; shorts, 6⅛c; boxed 15c higher.

Highwines—Firm at $1.23.

Lead and Spelter.

Lead—Holders asking $2.90 and 100 tons Nov held at that, but the market dull, as there is little demand.

Spelter—Offered at $3.17½, but hardly any demand and $3.15 the best bid.

ON THE STREET.

[The Post-Dispatch quotations are for lots in first hands unless otherwise quoted. Orders are filled with choice goods and are higher.]

Fruits.

Apples—The demand was confined largely to fruit suitable for storing away for the winter. Fancy apples were very firm; considerable inferior and held stock is on the market at present. Ben Davis range from $1@1.25 for small, knotty, wormy and otherwise inferior fruit to $1.60@1.85 for the best Levee offerings and $2.00@2.10 for fancy car lots; geneting at $1@1.25 for small to $1.40@1.65 for choice car lots of Western mixed, including fancy varieties, at $2.25@2.40; Eastern at $1.50@1.75 for seconds to $2.25@2.50 for fancy; Canada, $1.75@2.25. In filling country orders 25@50c per bbl more than foregoing prices are charged.

Grapes—Quiet and unchanged in prices. Concord sold from 13c to 18c per basket; Catawba dull at 13@15c per basket and Niagara, 12½c per ½-basket.

Pears—Sound Eastern quotable at $2.50@2.75 per bbl; damaged less.

Californi Fruits—Very quiet. The supply of choice fruit was moderate, yet ample to the demand. Natoma Tokay grapes, $3@3.50 ₧ crate; pears, $1.50@2; peaches, 60@90c. All damaged fruit ranged much lower.

Oranges—Trade improving. There was a fair demand to note, as the quality of Florida fruit has shown some improvement. Florida, $2.25@2.75; Russets, $2@2.50; Mexican, $3@3.50 per box.

Lemons—Supply and demand light. Florida, $2.75@3.25 per box; Sicily, $2.50@3.50.

Bananas—On orders, $1@1.75 per bunch, according to size.

Cocoanuts—Selling in round lots from first hands at $35.00 per 1,000—in small way at $4 per 100.

Cranberries—New crop Cape Cod selling in jobbing way at $10 per bbl and $3.40 per box.

Dried Fruits—The receipts are not large and the market is still quiet with scarcely any demand. Eastern fruit is being freely offered in all Western markets. Apples—Evaporated rings, 5½@6c; sun-dried quarters, 5@5½c; chopped, ½c; cores and peelings, sun-dried, ½c; evaporated 1c.

Vegetables.

Potatoes—Demand slow and only for choice sound stock, of which the supply has been pretty well reduced. Most of the old stock that has been standing around for some time has been worked off and the market is in a position to permit of an improvement if the demand should pick up any. Eastern burbank quotable at 55@60c; Northern stock, 40@45c for mixed and inferior to 50@55c for the best; home-grown, 35@45c; fancy Colorado and Montana, 65@70c On country orders, 10c per bu more than foregoing prices are charged.

Onions—Quiet and unchanged; demand moderate, and only choice stock wanted; fancy red globe, 60@62½c per bu; choice yellow, 45@48c; sacked lots of Missouri and Iowa growth, 25@35c for small and damaged, to 40@50c for the best. On country orders, 10c per bu more than foregoing prices are charged.

Spanish Onions—Sell at $1.15@1.25 per case.

Sweet Potatoes—Home-grown in abundant supply and selling slowly at 30@50c per bu loose; on orders, Bermudas, $1.50 ₧ bbl; Nansemond, $2. Consigned stock not wanted.

Rutabagas—Latest sales were at 25@30c per bu in bulk.

Cauliflower—Michigan sold at $1@2 per crate; Wisconsin, $2@2.50 per bbl.

Parsnips—Choice on orders, $1.75 per bbl.

Cabbage—Steady and demand fair. Fancy, $10@11 per ton; choice, $8@9; inferior less. On orders, $1.50 per crate.

Horseradish—Choice on orders, $8 per bbl.

Celery—Choice in demand with ample supply. Michigan small, 10@20c per doz; choice to fancy large, 25@40c. Celery roots, 35@40c.

Sauerkraut—City make, ½-bbls, $1.50; $2.75 per bbl; on orders, 25@50c per bbl higher.

Beets—Choice, on orders, $1.50 per bbl.

Turnips—Home-grown on orders $1 per bbl, consignments not wanted—will not bring freight charges.

Carrots—Northern selling at $1 per bbl and at $11 per ton in bulk; choice, on orders, $1.25 per bbl.

Eggs.

Received, 1,284 cases; shipped, 340 cases. Firm. Fresh gathered stock quotable at 15½c per doz, but most offerings out of condition and selling for much less.

Seeds and Castor Beans.

Grass Seeds—Unchanged. Timothy quotable at $4.75 to $5.25. Clover at $7.75 to $8.10. Red top at $3 to $5.50. Millet at $1@1.20. Hungarian, $1.25@1.50.

Flaxseed—Better, $1.38 bid spot or to arrive.

Hempseed—Pure test, $2.76 per 100 lbs.

Butter and Cheese.

Butter—Demand slow and only from buyers of best grades. Dairy and country are neglected, with receipts increasing of latter. Prices unchanged.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Wheat was dull but steady at the opening here to-day, but later became firmer on small Northwestern receipts, (683 cars, against 1,032 last year), rather bullish Price Current and decrease of stocks at Liverpool. Cables were firm. Dec opened unchanged at 52⅝c, declined ⅛c and then advanced to 53@⅛c. Though Liverpool was ¼c lower and local scalpers tried to break prices on the fine weather, corn held steady. May started a shade lower at 50½c and declined to 50⅜c. Later the market rallied to 50⅝@⅞c. The oats trade was confined to scalpers. May started a shade higher at 32⅛c, declined ⅛c and advanced to 32⅝@⅛c. Provisions were easier. Jan pork opened 2½c lower at $11.80 and declined to $11.77½. Jan lard started 2½c lower at 6 82½c, declined to 6.80c and advanced to 6.85.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 1.—Nearly all the conditions were favorable for better prices for wheat here to-day, but the most strength was derived from the death of the Czar of Russia, which, it is feared, may lead to political complications and made the trade quite apprehensive. Cables were steady, holding all the advance that was made yesterday, and it was reported that several foreign houses had liberal buying orders from abroad. The stocks in Liverpool show a reduction of 1,100,000 bu during the last month, and are only about half what they were at this time last year. The receipts in the Northwest are lighter, and all this, taken in connection with the death of the Czar, started shorts to covering, and for a time there was a feeling bordering on excitement, and prices ½c above the close yesterday. But the advance started generous realizing and short selling, under which there was a loss of part of the improvement, but yet no great decline. The Czar's death, it was argued, had been freely discounted, and while Liverpool stocks were smaller than last year the visible supply and the amount on passage was in the aggregate 6,000,000 bu more than a year ago. So after all the trade began to think it was hardly safe to bull the market on this showing.

LONDON, Nov. 1, 2 p. m.—There will be no quotations on American securities to-day from this market on account of the Stock Exchange being closed, this being a holiday in England.

NEW YORK—Although the stock market shows strength at the opening there is no particular buying. There seems to be very little stock pressing for sale. There is a good demand for Jersey Central in the loan crowd. The boys are all working on the bull side of Northwestern, and their trading is advancing the stock.

The statement of the New York Central for the quarter ending Sept 30, shows a net decrease of $217,700; the deficit increased $293,000. Indications yesterday were that the bear party covered a large line of stocks during the morning, including Coalers, Grangers and Sugar, but found stocks coming easily and accordingly put out a new short line in the afternoon. A good deal of long Northwestern was sold, also some Jersey Central and St. Paul. The break in Northwestern and the probability of gold exports made bearish sentiment. Chicago was a large seller, more so than of late, and commission houses had numerous liquidating orders. The bond market was unusually active, and while there were concessions in some speculative issues the general list of bonds was firm, and in some instances higher.

FLOATING SPLEEN.

A Case of Peculiar Medical Interest at the Hospital.

The case of William Wright at the City Hospital is of great interest to the medical profession. The patient is suffering with an ailment caused by a floating spleen. That organ which is entirely detached from other portions of the body has left its normal position and its eccentric movements interfere greatly with the other organs and prevent them from performing their functions properly. Dr. Heine Marks says that an operation will be necessary and that the case is an extraordinary one.

MRS. COLLINS' CASES.

Judge Priest Overrules Motions for New Trials.

Judge Priest, in the United States Court, overruled the motions for new trials made by the defendants in the suits of Mrs. Kate H. Collins against the Travelers' Protective Association and T. P. Miller, growing out of the asphyxiation of Perry Collins in the St. James Hotel. In the colloquy between the Judge and the attorneys, the Court did not encourage much argument, and he took occasion to say that had the juries returned verdicts for the defendants, he would have set the verdicts aside.

Released on Bond.

Andrew J. Dickson, ex-postmaster at Louisville, Pike Co., Mo., was arraigned in the United States District Court at 10 a. m., on the charge of making false returns to the Goverment of stamp cancelations. He pleaded not guilty and was released on his own recognizance to appear for trial on Nov. 7.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS.

The Aggregate Individual Deposits on Oct. 2 Was $1,728,418,819.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 1.—An abstract of the resources and liabilities of the National Banks in the United States on Oct. 2, 1894, as shown by their reports to the Comptroller of the Currency, shows that the aggregate amount of individual deposits on that date was $1,728,418,819, against $1,451,124,330 on Oct. 3, 1893. The loans and discounts have increased during that time over $161,000,000. The amount of specie in National Banks on Oct. 2, 1894, was $27,250,254 and legal tenders $120,544,058.

Two $5,000 Damage Suits.

Thomas Hollinshead and Wilson Kaye bring separate suits in the Circuit Court against Jacob Back, each claiming $5,000 damages. Mr. Hollinshead alleges that he was the owner of some real estate on Eighth and Chestnut streets and also in Evans place, and that on Sept. 6 last Back attached the same in a proceeding against Jacob B. Ulrich, by which alleged wrongful attachments he was prevented from leasing the property on Eighth and Chestnut streets for a term of years, to his great loss. Mr. Kaye charges that he was the owner of some real estate in Forest Park place and that the same was attached and levied upon by Bach in a proceeding against Ulrich. Both allege that the attachments were maliciously made.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

Appropriate Services in the Catholic and Episcopal Churches.

This is All Saints' Day, and the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches have services as on Sunday. In the Episcopal churches the regular morning service was held. At Christ Church Cathedral services were held at 7 and 10 a. m. All Saints' Day marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the cathedral, but the occasion will not be commemorated by special services. In future there will be a daily communion service in the cathedral at 7 a. m. In the Roman Catholic calendar All Saints' Day is a holy day of obligation, and all the faithful are obliged to hear mass. Friday, Nov. 2, is All Souls' Day.

Attempt to Murder His Rival.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Michael Salvator placed a dynamite cartridge under a house in which Eugene Geneva and his wife were sleeping at Clinton Point. He then fired four shots through the window, but missed his mark. The first shot awakened Geneva, and with his wife he reached the adjoining room just as the dynamite exploded. Part of the house and furniture were demolished. The man and woman were badly bruised by the flying debris. Salvator was the rival of Geneva in Italy, and he followed the couple to America. Salvator escaped.

CABINET DIVIDED.

Split on the Question of What to Do With a Coachman.

THE SPRUCE BRITON IMPORTED BY EX-VICE-PRESIDENT MORTON.

Secretary Carlisle Finds Himself in a Bad Plight—A Final Decision Will Not Be Reached Until To-Morrow—Washington Officials Decline to Talk About It.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—Secretary Carlisle finds himself in a worse plight to-day over his action in ordering the deportation of John James Howard, the under coachman of Mr. Levi P. Morton, than he has since the whole ridiculous business began. It was bad enough when the silly question got into the Federal courts, and it was worse when it came up in the Cabinet of the President of the United States with its sixty odd millions of inhabitants, but it has become worse of all now, when it is found that this Cabinet of this great Government is actually divided against itself on this opera-bouffe question of whether or not the decision of a Federal Court shall be overturned and this unlucky little under coachman shall be sent back to his native country because he is a menace to the peace and order of this Republic.

Here is the Secretary of the Treasury devoting all his time since Tuesday to framing his decision in the case. Here is the Attorney-General devoting his time to framing an opinion upholding his views as expressed at the cabinet meeting Tuesday; for it is an open secret that the case was exhaustively discussed then and that the Treasury and the law departments were on opposite sides. So fierce was the struggle that these great men are believed to have agreed to discuss it again before the full cabinet once more meets next Friday.

Mr. Carlisle, it is understood, will insist on his original decision. Like old Cato in the Roman Senate, who always wound up every speech by declaring that Carthage must be destroyed, so Secretary still calls out, "The under coachman must go."

It was given out at the Treasury Department that the decision in this great case would be made public to-day, but, behold, there must be another Cabinet meeting and the under coachman will not know his awful fate until after Friday next. Then it is understood Mr. Carlisle's learned array of precedents in somewhat similar cases before the department, together with his opinion, will be read at this meeting.

Then Atty.-Gen. Olney's interpretation of this act will be submitted at the same time.

Members of the Cabinet who were seen by the POST-DISPATCH correspondent urged various reasons for declining to enter into a discussion of the merits of the case or to express an opinion either as to the soundness of the Secretary's position or as to the expediency of his action. Atty.-Gen. Olney would say nothing about the case. Mr. Olney said he had "not a word to say; not a word, not a word."

Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith was asked his opinion of the legal aspect of the case and he replied in a guarded way:

"As the matter did not come before my department I have not studied the case. In fact I really have not paid much attention to the matter any further than to read the newspaper accounts and have not followed even them very closely."

Secretary of the Navy Herbert would not say anything of course as to what took place in the Cabinet. And as to the merits of the case, he said he had not examined it and therefore could say nothing.

Secretary of Agriculture Morton asked to be excused from expressing an opinion.

"I have just returned from Europe," said he, "and I know very little of the Howard case."

Secretaries Carlisle, Gresham and Lamont could not be seen.

About all the members of the United States Supreme Court, including the Chief Justice, were seen by the correspondent, but they asked to be excused from discussing the legal points in the Howard case, as it might be appealed to the court. Justice Brown's reply, in answer to the correspondent's question, was:

"The case may come up before the Supreme Court and it would be impossible for any of us to express an opinion on such a case with propriety. It would not be an impeachable offense, but it would be a grave offense against the rules of conduct that should govern our number."

In view of the reports about the differences of opinion in the Cabinet, Secretary Carlisle's forthcoming report is awaited with much curiosity. It is understood Mr. Carlisle will hold that inasmuch as Howard was not employed in England by Mr. Morton as his domestic servant and did not come into this country with Mr. Morton as his domestic servant, his case cannot come under the clause of the law which relates to such immigrants. It seems that the board which took evidence in the case at New York found as facts that Mr. Morton hired a horse and carriage, together with the services of a driver, from a liveryman named Spencer. This is the custom followed by most Americans who spend seasons in England. The driver was Howard. It will be asserted, therefore, that he was not the servant of Mr. Morton in England, but the employe of Mr. Spencer, as he was paid by Spencer.

The Secretary talked the matter over with Supt. Stump recently and the Superintendent was inclined to take the view that although Howard did not come into the country with Mr. Morton he was constructively a domestic servant within the meaning of the law, as he had served Mr. Morton in England, as Mr. Stump understood it, but when Mr. Carlisle pointed out to Mr. Stump the evidence that Mr. Morton hired the services of Howard not from Howard himself, but from Spencer, Mr. Stump fell into accord with the Secretary and agreed that Howard could not be held to be entitled to remain in the country. Victory for the Secretary of the Treasury over Stump.

GUILTY OFFICE BOY.

An Explanation of the Bold Safe Robbery at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—On last Tuesday an arrest was made in New York which furnishes an unlooked-for sequel to what had gone into Chicago criminal history as the most remarkable robbery of the city's long list. On Aug. 27 Isaac Steinberg, a 15-year-old boy, employed by S. Franklin, the proprietor of a large picture frame factory at Morgan and Twelfth streets, Chicago, was found bound and gagged, lying on the floor of the office. The safe was open and diamonds valued at $5,000 and $250 in cash were missing. The boy at the time told a thrilling story of being overcome by three armed men, who compelled him to give them the combination of the safe. The entire police force was put on the case, and young Steinberg was looked upon as a hero.

Tuesday morning, in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, N. Y., a poorly dressed boy who had been arrested at No. 690 Park avenue, was arraigned under the name of Isaac Steinberg and charged with being an accomplice in the Chicago robbery. He said he was 15 years of age, and when asked to plead said without a tremor in his voice: "I'm guilty. I put up the job, or at least them other fellows put up the job, and I helped them." He was remanded without bail.

At the time of the strange robbery in this city the police, after working several weeks on the case, were inclined to suspect the office boy. Because of his family connections, Mr. Franklin did not like to disgrace the boy, in fact, did not believe he was guilty. Detective Zalenska was confident that while the boy was really found gagged, he allowed himself to be so, in order to divert suspicion. One day he was sent to the Post-office for $10 worth of stamps. Zalenska, who had been shadowing the boy, found that he had only bought $4 worth of stamps, and put him under arrest, when he returned to his employer's office. The $6 in change was found in his pocket and the boy confessed to stealing the stamps. When pressed, he also said that he, with the three men, had concocted the scheme by which the office had been robbed. His employer again, because of the boy's connections, did not cause his arrest, but he was discharged and kept under police surveillance.

A notorious gang, known as the Martell-McCabe gang, was known to have committed the robbery, and Michael Joyce, one of the members, in resisting arrest, was shot in the shoulder by Detective Zalenska, and is now in a hospital. Last week young Steinberg was missed from home. He was traced to his uncle's house, at No. 690 Park avenue, Brooklyn, and on Tuesday morning he was arrested.

Out of all the booty, he said he received only $50. The diamonds, he said, were buried in the yard back of the Eagle Diamond Foundry, in South Chicago, and he gave a minute description of the place.

How Did Smithson Die?

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—At the inquest over the body of J. M. Smithson of Minneapolis, who died here under suspicious circumstances, one witness said he had seen Smithson drinking on Monday with a woman who said she came from Cleveland. That day Smithson had a check for $800 in his possession which cannot now be found. Inquiry will be resumed to-night.

SUMMONED TO MEXICO.

Clenfugos Will Not Join His Wife at Acapulco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 1.—Gen. Clenfugos, Gen. Antonio Ezeta's young lieutenant, who was released from jail a few days ago, will not go back to Acapulco to join his wife. He received a telegram from Ezeta summoning him to the City of Mexico, and he started thither at once. It is deemed probable that Ezeta desires his assistance in the troublesome experiences which are believed to be in store for the Central America Republics. Ezeta expects to take an active part in the disturbances, with the backing of President Diaz of Mexico.

Through Clenfugos, Antonio Ezeta purchased from Capt. H. N. Jennings, the broadsword fighter and trainer, a handsome 6-year-old chestnut sorrel horse known as Dictator, Jr. This horse attracted much attention in the society circus here some time ago. The horse is to be presented by Gen. Ezeta to his friend, President Diaz of Mexico. The price paid for the horse was $2,500. In the society circus the horse did many tricks, for he is trained far above the average of his kind. Dictator, Jr., has now been turned over to Secundino Apac, who will ship him by rail to Mexico when he will be turned over to President Diaz.

GAUTEMALA-MEXICAN TROUBLE.

Alfred Charpentier, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from France to the five Central American Republics, is here from Gautemala, on a leave of absence, and after several days' stay in the city will leave for Europe by way of New Orleans and New York. Mr. Charpentier does not think there will be any trouble between Gautemala and Mexico. Speaking of the matter he said:

"The people of Gautemala have not given the matter any thought whatever. Mexico seems more concerned over the prospect of war than Gautemala. I do not believe there is any foundation whatever for the story afloat. There is certainly no truth in the report that the Government of Gautemala has sent troops to the Mexican frontier. That would be folly. Gautemala is not in a position to engage in war with Mexico."

GUATEMALA'S POSITION UNTENABLE.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 1.—Information has been received here that the Government of Guatemala, following the usual course, has consulted a foreign diplomatist in the City of Guatemala as to the Mexican difficulty. The diplomatist held that Guatemala's position was untenable, hence that country has withdrawn its troops precipitately from the disputed frontier territory at Agua Azul.

TRAMPS HELD UP.

New Departure in the Robbery Line in Iowa.

CLINTON, Io., Nov. 1.—Something new in the line of a hold-up took place at East Clinton late last night. Sixteen men, some of whom were tramps, and others who had been at work and were saving their money and beating their way home, were in a box car. Suddenly there was a sharp rap for admission and those inside, supposing some one wanted shelter, opened the door. On the outside were four masked men armed with pistols and dark lanterns. Two of the men entered the car and commanded the occupants to throw up their hands. They then ordered them to stand in line, and while one of them held the gun his companion went through the outfit. They secured $400 in cash and two watches.

SHOT IN THE THIGH.—Bill Jentry, a colored boy of 12 years, shot Viola Mitchell, also colored, and aged 27, in the thigh at 2421 Papin street Wednesday. They had quarreled over a trifling matter.

TOOK HER FURNITURE.

About $300 worth of parlor furniture was taken from the residence of Mrs. Carrie Trieber, 2634½ Lafayette avenue, Wednesday afternoon, by an express wagon driver who halted his vehicle in front of the house and took from the house a sofa, rocking chair and arm chair. A policeman who stood on the corner saw the proceeding, but thought that the driver was authorized to remove the furniture. Mrs. Johnson a relative of the family, was the only one in the house at the time and she did not know what was going on. The police learned that the furniture had been removed by Charles Busch, who said he had employed by a man claiming to be the owner of the articles. The property was taken to Joseph Bensinger's housefurnishing store, 708 and 710 North High street, where it was sold for $15.50. Mr. Benjamin E. Trieber, son of Mrs. Trieber, expressed the opinion that the person who had the furniture carted away is a man to whom his mother gave shelter two weeks ago, when he told her he had no place to sleep. Mrs. Trieber gave him a room, and he represented that he was in daily expectation of a position with a wholesale grocery house.

JILTED HER FIANCE.

Miss Kate Howarth Eloped With and Married a Former Lover.

VANCEBURG, Ky., Nov. 1.—Miss Kate Howorth, a belle of Lewis and Carter Counties, some months ago was engaged to be married to James T. Goodwin, a handsome young mountaineer. Miss Kate received the attentions of Nathan Taylor, a wealthy young farmer. After a short courtship their wedding was announced for last evening. A large number of guests assembled. Everything was in readiness for the ceremony when the former lover, Goodwin, rode up to the house and sent word that he would like to speak with Miss Howarth. Taylor objected, fearing Goodwin meant to injure her, but Kate hurried out and talked with him. Suddenly the girl sprang upon the horse behind Goodwin and went racing away toward the Ohio. Pursuit was unsuccessfully attempted. The runaways reached the Buckeye State in time for a hasty marriage before those following reached them.

Home Missionary Society.

Mrs. M. A. Kannals presided at the second annual district meeting of the Parsonage and Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, which was held at the Cook Avenue Church. The meeting was well attended, and Mrs. Skinner and others made brief addresses, concerning mission work, which showed that its progress was favorable. Addresses were also made by a number of ministers present in laudation of the good accomplished.
